Milliken Defends Troopers Against U.S. Bias Charges

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has defended the Michigan State Police against charges of minority discrimination filed against the agency by the U.S. Justice Department.

The suit, filed Monday in Grand Rapids, charged discrimination against women, blacks and Spanish-surnamed persons in hiring, assignments and promotions.

The suit "comes at a time when the (State Police) department's effort to expand minority and female representation is temporarily at a standstill," Milliken said Tuesday.

Milliken said State Police are "moving aggressively" to add minority members and women, but a court-ordered delay of training for the most recent recruit class has halted that effort.

"Had that class started on schedule, the State Police would now be training 27 minorities and 19 women to become officers," Milliken said. "Assuming those applicants are graduated, the State Police will then have doubled the number of black officers on the force, and tripled the number of women officers."

The Justice Department suit says Michigan has more than 2,000 troopers but only 25 of them are black. There are seven policewomen, but none work as troopers, the suit said.

The training school was ordered Monday to remain closed by Ingham County Circuit Court Judge James Kallman until a reverse discrimination suit brought by a white Lansing resident could be heard.

The two cases appear to be at odds, the reverse discrimination case being brought by a white charging favoritism to minorities while the Justice Department suit alleges discrimination against minorities.

Kallman said it is clear minority group members and women were given preference in recruiting for the school, which was scheduled to begin Sept. 22.

Kallman said the state "has returned to the spoils system. Only the participants have changed. How many more qualified people are passed over to show such preference?"

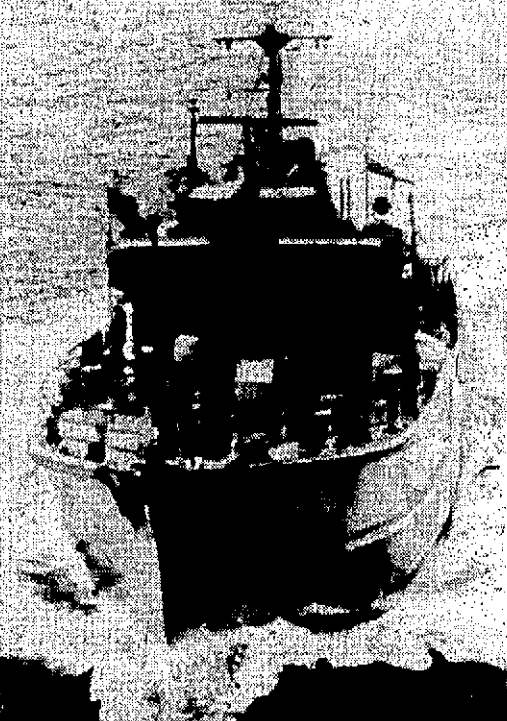

Kallman's action extended an earlier court order barring classes for some 84 students. The charges were made by Fred Gibson, 23, who claimed he was not accepted for training because he is a white male.

Of the 84 recruit hopefuls, 24 were minority males, 19 were minority females, 19 were white females and 38 were white males, State Police said.

"It is my hope that the issues in these cases can be consolidated and resolved in one court," Milliken said. "The state would then have a clear set of guidelines to follow as it tries to develop employment practices that meet constitutional standards."

In the next few weeks, Milliken said the Michigan Equal Employment Opportunity Council, which he chairs, is expected to issue a policy statement as part of "an accelerating effort" to get minority hiring working in state government.

The Justice Department's suit also seeks a court order requiring the state to set goals and timetables for adding more minority members and women to the State Police.

PRINCE CHARLES' SHIP: Here's British 300-ton minesweeper Bronington whose new skipper is Prince Charles, 27-year-old heir to British throne. Prince, who joined navy four years ago, was given command of the warship Tuesday and the Defense Ministry said his training and experience had "given him an excellent insight into all aspects of naval life." He's a naval lieutenant and is currently a helicopter pilot in naval commando squadron. (AP Wirephoto)

Ship Sinks; 13 Missing

SHIMODA, Japan (AP) — A freighter carrying steel plate sank in rough seas today, and 13 Filipino crewmen are missing, maritime officials said. They said the ship's 13 other crewmen were rescued.

The ship was identified as the Panamanian-registered Denpasar. It sank about 50 miles south of Shimoda, in central Japan, the Maritime Safety Agency said.

The ship was enroute from Chiba, southeast of Tokyo, to Mindanao in the southern Philippines.

BH Board, Teachers Have Pact

An 11-hour bargaining session ended at 4 a.m. today with announcement of a tentative contract agreement between the Benton Harbor board of education and the Benton Harbor Education Association.

Crash Hurts Gov. Blanton

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee Gov. Ray Blanton suffered cuts and bruises in an automobile crash here while returning from a meeting in Knoxville with President Ford and other Appalachian governors.

A joint statement by the board and BHEA said: "Understandings were reached in an 11-hour bargaining session Tuesday evening between the Benton Harbor board of education and the BHEA which are expected to lead to a tentative two-year contract agreement in the near future."

"Details of the agreement are being withheld pending ratification by both parties." Outstanding issues have been reported as retroactivity of contract, and board proposals to shorten lunch periods of elementary teachers and change grievance procedures for probationary teachers.

Teachers have been without a contract since Aug. 23. Classes have been held as usual except for a one-day protest strike by the BHEA Sept. 25.

TV Guest Steals The Show

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — A radio interviewer had a surprise guest who stole the show, a campus police officer who arrested him on outstanding traffic warrants while he was on the air.

"On my show you're going to bust me?" William Drips, public affairs director for KQVS, the University of California at Davis radio station, asked Tuesday night.

Officer Lincoln Ellis delivered the line: "You're under arrest."

Drips was led out of the studio, and station manager Jim Muscleville, who had been sitting in on a panel discussion about the need for a new Davis City Hall, took over as moderator.

"Pardon the interruption," he told listeners, without elaborating.

Davis police had issued speeding warrants for Drips after he failed to appear in court on a citation, authorities said.

HITS BRIDGE BARRICADE: The first accident at barricade to approach to new bridge off Wayne street, St. Joseph, since detour was lifted last week occurred early today. St. Joseph police said this car hit barricade, flipped and came to rest against utility pole. Police said driver Michael Duane Dasse, 25, of 1929 South State street, was uninjured, but was arrested on charge of drunk and disorderly and ticketed for careless driving. Barricade will be up a long time because new bridges over Morrison channel and St. Joseph river aren't scheduled for completion until August, 1977. (Staff photo)

BH Bank Robbery Suspect Has Fled

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

A warrant charging a 19-year-old man with Monday's $1,800 robbery of the Inter-City bank's Wall street branch, Benton Harbor, was issued Tuesday, an FBI agent said.

The agent said the FBI believes Raymond Dunlap, 19, of 2708 Lake Shore drive, St. Joseph, formerly of Benton Harbor, named in the warrant, has left this area.

Agent Dean Phelps said "We're fairly certain he has left this area." He said the FBI is currently investigating leads on Dunlap's whereabouts, one which indicated he may be on his way to California.

Phelps confirmed that part of the money taken in the robbery has been recovered, but declined to reveal the amount or how it was recovered. He said that information has "a bearing on the case."

The warrant for Dunlap's arrest was issued yesterday by U.S. Magistrate Steven Karr in Grand Rapids.

A lone bandit escaped on foot from the downtown bank branch after presenting a note to a teller announcing a holdup. No gun was used in the robbery and no one was injured.

Four Flags Apple Festival To Open

NILES — The third annual Four Flags area apple festival gets under way here Thursday and continues through Sunday.

The four-day celebration begins with the blessing of the festival at 9 a.m. Thursday in front of the Niles city hall.

Also Thursday, and continuing through Saturday, the festival will stage a "international apple seed popping" contest. Thursday's and Friday's competition will be held from 5 to 8 p.m., at the city's urban renewal band shell at Second and Main streets.

Finals in the contest will be staged on Saturday, from 10 a.m. until noon, at the same location.

No Mail Delivery Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Regular residential and business mail deliveries will not be made next Monday, in honor of Columbus Day, the U.S. Postal Service says.

The service announced Tuesday that it will operate on a holiday schedule on Oct. 13. Normal weekend service will be provided Saturday and Sunday.

Highlight of the festival will be the grand parade, scheduled to stop off at 1 p.m. Saturday, and march through the downtown Niles area.

Festival officials said Niles city police will direct traffic and guide motorists to parking areas in the city.

Over 100 units, including 28 marching bands, will make up the parade.

Mrs. Sue Gourlay, festival vice president, said a variety of carnival activities, dances, children's events and contests will be staged in the downtown area throughout the festival.

The festival gets its name from the flags of four nations that have flown over the Niles area. Since 1870, governments of France, Britain, Spain and the United States, at one time or another, have had possession and control of the area.

Building Plan Defeated

PETOSKEY, Mich. (AP) — A $1 million building program for special education pupils was defeated Tuesday by Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate school district voters. School officials said the defeat means the 11 special education pupils must keep using four old buildings, including two 1-room schoolhouses.

Some Upmanship On Tax Reduction

Well aware that Congress would join in bipartisan unity to extend the tax cuts of 1975 into next year, President Ford is calling up the nation's legislature to take a bigger jump on a provisional basis.

The White House is urging a deeper and permanent reduction, provided the same amount of money is trimmed from appropriations.

The swap is just under $28 billion. Over two-thirds of the total, $20.7 billion as outlined by the President, would lighten the load on individuals. There would be an $8 billion drop to replace this year's temporary decline which under present law would expire on Dec. 31. Another $4 billion would be lopped off to retain personal withholding rates at their current level. An additional $8.7 billion would be removed through a distribution among all income ranges.

Some $4 billion of the $20.7 reduction would be accomplished by raising exemptions and the minimum standard deductions taken as credits against total income.

Business would receive a $7 billion break by raising the investment tax credit to 10 per cent and dropping the corporate rate from 48 to 46 per cent.

In exchange for those cutbacks, Congress must agree to a $395 billion spending ceiling for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1977. Such a lid presumably is $27.7 billion extra which Congressional sentiment appears bent to tacking on to that mind boggling budget.

Ford's personal views and voting record on federal spending which are at odds with his proposal which he is trotting out in the hope that the present Congress may acquire a modicum of common sense on fiscal matters.

The prevailing sentiment is concerned less with the long range implication of increasing inflation than it is with stirring a still winded economy into greater activity.

Juggling the federal budget from one shade of red to another is a trademarked Washington nostrum for getting things done.

It is in the vein of saying that the way to make an engine last longer is to run it faster.

Nonsensical as is such advocacy, the political fact of life draws its nourishment from New Deal days that a little inflation never hurt anyone, whereas deflation in any degree is retrogressing to a caveman's standard.

Ford's overture is another risky venture in inflation, yet tempered from the degree to which Congress would take the country.

Unions Get More Power Under New 'Reform' Law

The political pundits are still mulling over the meaning of New Hampshire's senatorial run-off election in which Democrat John A.

Parents' Duty To Remember

So soon have we forgotten. From the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta comes word that more than a third of pre-school children in the United States have not been immunized against the diseases which once afflicted thousands of children each year, leaving many of them scarred and crippled for life.

October is the third annual Immunization Action Month, a good time to remind parents and physicians that vaccine protection is available against the crippling diseases of polio, measles, mumps, rubella, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus, but in far too many cases is not being used.

It would be tragic if it took another scare like the thousands of polio victims of the 1950s to reach the high degree immunization reached at the height of the Salk vaccine campaign. But the fact is a lack of an epidemic has caused the nation to invite a new one by relaxing its guard.

Durkin defeated Republican Louis C. Wyman.

As New Hampshire went, not necessarily will the nation go in 1976, of course. But the immediate consensus is that the defeat is a bad omen for the GOP in next year's presidential and congressional races. Durkin said his victory was a rejection of President Ford's economic policies.

The New Hampshire election was more than the first electoral test of the Ford administration, however. It was also the first test of the new federal campaign spending law, and in this respect numerous observers see portents of trouble for the GOP that go far beyond apparent popular dissatisfaction with the President's inability to turn the economy around.

The election dramatically demonstrated the powerful political leverage the new law has given to organized labor, they say. While Durkin, the winner, actually spent about $25,000 less of the over-all campaign ceiling of $220,000 than did Wyman, the loser, he was able to target his spending more effectively because thousands of dollars worth of support contributed by unions was not counted.)

For example, union agents working for the Democratic candidate telephoned each of the 45,000 union households in the state several times, mailed literature under cheap bulk rates allowed for nonprofit organizations, distributed absentee ballots and worked house-to-house in some districts on election day.

In addition, the New Hampshire State Labor Council mailed pro-Durkin letters to 47,000 AFL-CIO members, and the heads of several other unions also sent out literature.

Under the campaign spending "reform" law, none of these or other union political activities had to be applied to Durkin's spending limitation because such "in kind" aid is merely the expression of the unions' right to communicate with their members.

According to William Baltaks, regional director for the Republican National Committee, the failure to include "in kind" union contributions in the campaign spending law is going to be "a big problem" for the Republicans.

It's also going to be a big problem for the unorganized citizen who doesn't happen to belong to either a government or industrial employees' union. And in the long run, by helping to promote group pressure over individual freedom, the "reform" bill will hurt even those to whom it gives temporary advantage.

KISSINGER NEEDED IN RH SCHOOL TALKS?

Editor,
This is an open letter to the members of the BHEA and the members of the BH Board of Education.

I have a strong feeling from both of these organizations that each in some way would sincerely like to find a solution to the teacher contract problems.

The BHEA has stated that they are willing to negotiate through binding arbitration. On the other hand, the School Board has indicated through their president's telegram to Dr. Porter that they are willing to accept Dr. Porter's appointment of a factfinder, except Dr. Porter said: "I do not have the statutory authority to appoint a factfinder."

Maybe we the taxpayers and the students of the Benton Harbor area school system can get Dr. Henry Kissinger to come to Benton Harbor and negotiate the problems, and just maybe this will be acceptable to both sides.

A HUNTER'S WIFE DEFENDS THE SPORT

Editor,
This is a copy of a letter about the "Guns of Autumn" that I sent to CBS to voice my dislike and disgust of the show. But I would like it known publicly that I agree with hunting.

Mrs. Dale Brown
Route 2, Box 253A
Three Oaks

Dear Mr. Leonard,

I certainly hope that the anti-hunting groups and CBS are pleased with their beautifully edited piece of propaganda that they called the "Guns of Autumn." They managed to depict the hunter as a cold-blooded, heartless, slob, which is to say a most unfair thing to do. Do they honestly think that what was shown on this program was the average hunter? In all phases of life there are people who refuse to obey laws and rules and are unfeeling, but does that put every human being in the same category? All of the hunters I know are law-abiding and concerned — which make them "Sportsmen." There is nothing more a conscientious hunter would like to do than to seek out and punish those who don't abide by the rules. Using the hunters we saw in the film as an example of all hunters is like using a criminal as an example of the average man.

I hope these people who are complaining about hunters are all vegetarians. They probably would be if they had ever visited a slaughterhouse where animals have no choice but to travel a one-way road. At least the wild animal is in his own environment and knows it better than his stalker. This makes the odds a little better for the wild animal than for the domesticated animal raised for food. I'm sure anti-hunters don't cry out in rage over animals being slaughtered when they are picking out a steak or roast in the meat counter (unless it concerns the cost per pound). When my husband goes hunting, he is not only going for the sport, but because he is going to try to bring home meat, and we eat everything he gets. Also it's a

Two fires of unexplained origin destroyed part of the Michigan Fruit Canners Fennville plant yesterday afternoon, causing damage which could only be estimated "in the hundreds of thousands" of dollars. A. Edward Brown, president of the firm, said today that the blaze was confined to the labeling department and one warehouse representing 10 per cent of the plant area. He said the company expects to be back in operation by the middle of next week.

The Women of the Moose conducted their one-day rule of Benton Harbor Friday by answering a fire alarm, directing traffic, and doing other chores for the feminine administration, headed by Mrs. Arthur Wieritz, mayor for a day. It was the second time the gals held the reins of city government. The women were granted permission by the city commission to run the city after the first stint was successful last year.

— 50 Years Ago —

Because of strenuous objections on the part of citizens who now and again have stepped on to their back porches only to hurriedly return indoors, seeking refuge from stray buckshot and rifle bullets, the St. Joseph city council Wednesday night, through the police committee, instructed the police authorities to rigidly enforce the ordinance prohibiting the use of firearms within the city limits. The intended effect of this action is to stop hunters from stalking wild and semi-wild fowl along the marshy banks of the St. Joseph river north of Napier bridge and opposite from the state game sanctuary on the Benton Harbor side of the stream.

The Teachers' club of Benton Harbor, composed of practically all public school teachers, enjoy the distinction of being the first organization to register officially a subscription to the Y.M.C.A. campaign by voting

"This is the greatest single improvement that has been made in Benton Harbor this year," said W.P. Robbins when he visited what was Conkey's hall but what will be the Angier guard armory. The old hall does not look a bit like its old self. The stage has been torn out and in its place are being built parlors and retiring rooms for ladies and gentlemen on either side of the building. A gallery is being built, there will be a modern kitchen. Upwards of $1,000 is being expended in the way of making the improvements and Contractor Coyell assures the reserves that the new quarters will be ready by the first of next month. It is expected that many of the fashionable receptions and parties will be given at the new armory.

The Truth Just Fades Away

WASHINGTON — Two years ago this autumn Gerald Ford presented himself to the public trust in much the same way others in this town do, by dissembling.

Pressed as to whether he would use his unelected elevation to the vice presidency as a vehicle to even higher reaches, Ford assured a concerned Congress and benumbed nation he had "no intention" of seeking public office in 1976, and could "foresee" no circumstances where it would change my mind. Considering events since, one could conclude he lied.

Yet if Ford did deceive he also knew there was no worry or shame in it. Terminological inexactitudes, as Churchill said it, are among the foundation blocks of the American political-governmental process and public citizens have long looked on bad faith as little more than tennis elbow of the soul.

Ever since Parson George Washington, and grew rich and famous doing it, fictionalization has become an accepted, almost mandated, religion with officials fascinated by the remaking of reality.

Examples have been on most tongues in all moments of Washington history. George Washington lied to the Indians, Tom Jefferson lied to the blacks and Richard Nixon lied to everyone. According to author Clinton Rossiter, "There has not been a great leader in this century who wouldn't be devout at certain times for his own ends."

One recalls, almost with amusement, Lyndon Johnson rallying hawk support among troops in Korea (Halloween, 1968) by imagining: "My great, great grandfather, you know, died at the Alamo."

Bemusement, perhaps, is the only fitting reaction to government's preoccupation with bunkum. But often it is most difficult to laugh. David Wise, in his book "The Politics of Lying," reminds us that in 1971 when mechanical errors provoked a false national emergency alert, government humbug was in effect prepackaged to deceive what during a real alert would have been a terribly frightened public.

Wise says the government had prerecorded tapes, ready for use by the federally controlled Emergency Broadcast Station, assuring Americans that the enemy had struck first with atomic weapons, that retaliation was massive, and that the "probability of victory is good."

Watergate, it was thought, would change all this deception. Moralists have for months agreed with Rep. Donald Fraser (D-Minn.) who believes the day has ended when society penalizes people for lying to their government but not vice versa. Yet that day has not ended, the sun is still high on official fabrication.

To paraphrase Oliver Wendell Holmes, a lie remains the handle to fit all political sins.

Thus Wilbur Mills, when caught with the stripper, called her merely "a good family friend" and Richard Helms, an ambassador, late of the CIA, denies U.S. intervention in the affairs of Allende's Chile; and Nelson Rockefeller shabbily tells southern politicians he's from their cloth.

Actually, Watergate created naught but the illusion of a new Washington morality.

Everybody's for honesty, even more than ever, but nobody's for it enough to bring it about. The only meaningful proposal in Congress, for instance, the Watergate Reorganization Act, a bill, that among other things, outlaws government lying, still languishes.

ERA Stand Gets Little Praise

WASHINGTON — In the past two weeks, Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana has received more than 7,000 letters from people who say they hate him and threaten political revenge upon him.

That's a Dickens of a way to begin a presidential campaign, which Bayh is about to do next month.

The letters are from voters upset about the defeat in Bayh's Judiciary subcommittee of all proposals that would amend the Constitution to overturn the Supreme Court decision legalizing limited abortion.

Roughly half of the messages are worded identically and come from various "right to life" committees. Their national newsletter, "Life Letter," also denounces Bayh this week for "ambushing" the amendments, "masking his intentions," and personally marshaling the demise.

Bayh is not surprised by the abuse. He has frequently been picketed, over the past 18 months while his subcommittee held hearings into the subject, by anti-abortion advocates. The "right to life" committees in Indiana campaigned vigorously against him last fall, but he was re-elected to a third term despite them.

There is no special-interest lobby as well-organized, as single-minded or as vicious to its opponents as the anti-abortion activists. And they are well-financed, principally through Catholic-related organizations.

Bayh never committed himself publicly on the abortion issue before the committee vote, but privately he frankly agreed that a decision should be made by a woman and her doctor, without state interference. Since the vote, he has said he will try to block any further moves to defy the High Court on this issue.

He drew criticism from women's organizations for holding extensive hearings which seemed to give more time to anti-abortionists than to those who supported the Supreme Court decision. During the most publicized session, four Catholic cardinals testified that the operation should be outlawed even if doctors thought it necessary to save the life of the mother. The life of a woman, they argued, is not as important as the life of a fetus, which might turn out to be a male.

But Bayh recognized that the issue was so inflammatory the only responsible legislative course would be long hearings. Finally, when Bayh was convinced he had the votes, he pulled the plug on the problem.

It was an act of some political courage. Bayh could have postponed the vote or played a less active role in assuring the amendment's defeat. Presidential candidates traditionally tend to duck the tough ones.

Strangely, Bayh has so far had little thanks from women's organizations. As the Senate's chief champion of the Equal Rights Amendment and other measures to end discrimination against women, Bayh has earned a claim upon the women's vote (if, indeed, there is such a thing). So far, however, female activists have been slow to appreciate his efforts.

He has, for instance, received only about 300 letters praising him for steering the anti-abortion amendments into the trash can.

Kleppe Would Sell Securities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas S. Kleppe, agreeing to sell his securities in natural resource companies, is expected to win Senate confirmation as the next secretary of the interior. The Senate Interior Committee, after wrangling over the issue of Kleppe's financial interest in such companies, gave unanimous approval to the 56-year-old millionaire on Tuesday, clearing the way for the Senate to confirm him to the Cabinet post.

Benton Phasing Out Neighborhood Program

The Benton township board of trustees took action last night to phase out the township's Neighborhood Development program (NDP).

The board approved the $4,200 bid of the St. Joseph certified public accounting firm of Kovlan and McMurray to audit the program for the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), which provided funds for the program.

The NDP program, in operation since 1973, provided rehabilitation, relocation and public works projects in the township. Those services will now be provided under the federal Community Development program.

Judd Spray, township NDP director, said the program has completed its last project, the Belmont-Leeside storm sewer system installed in the Chicago avenue-Territorial road area. Spray said that after auditing, remaining funds will go to the Community Development program.

Also submitting bids for auditing were Herkner, Smiths, Miskill and Merrifield, of Benton Harbor, for $7,800, and Gerbel & Butz-bach, of St. Joseph, for $2,500 to $3,000. Spray reported that the low bid was not a "firm bid" and the proposed contract contained a clause which would call for a renegotiated contract if expenses exceeded the bid.

The township's approval of a CPA firm to audit the program must also be approved by HUD.

The board approved Skidmore Corporation's application for tax exemption under the 1974 Michigan Plant Rehabilitation and Industrial Development act.

Skidmore informed the township last month of its tentative plans to construct a 18,750 square foot addition to its plant in the Pipestone Industrial park that would cost about $278,000 and would employ up to 10 more people at the end of the first year of operation.

Skidmore now can receive up to a 50 per cent reduction on local property taxes for 12 years on the assessed valuation of the addition.

Clerk Catherine Sirk said that the township assessor had determined that normal property taxes on the addition would have been $7,526 per year. She said under the approved industrial tax exemption, Skidmore would pay approximately $3,763 for the next 12 years.

Atty. Rocco DeFrancesco, who said he was representing the Benton Harbor area schools, appeared before the board on the Skidmore request. DeFrancesco said he was seeking information on the request but did not state opposition to the granting of the request.

Skidmore manufactures condensate and vacuum pumps and hydraulic systems.

The board passed a resolution opposing the construction of any shoreline protection device along Lake Michigan without prior approval of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The board's action ties in with the township planning commission's earlier action of sending a resolution to the U.S. Army Corps protesting the construction and asking the removal of a 42-foot grain built for Herbert Mendel, of 1600 Rocky Gap road. Mendel told this newspaper that he had told the building contractors, Ottawa Tank and Marine company of Zeland, not to proceed until the builder received approval from the Army Corps.

The board approved the use of a building the township owns at 979 Waukonda avenue to be used as a center for the Benton township Senior Citizens program. The use of the building, formerly the Neighborhood Center offices, is pending on the township planning commission's action to grant a special-use permit for the senior citizens program.

In other action, the board:

— Granted 30-day delays on demolition of houses at 271 Charles and 942 11th and voted to advertise for bids for demolition of houses at 215 Charles and 141 North Fair.

— Approved a request for a used car license for Robert Bryan of Twin City Auction, 1640 Paw Paw avenue.

— Approved a request by Juel Ranum, 1001 Fort road, to split a 200-foot lot out of 15 acres he owns at that address.

CHANGE OF GUARD, QUARTERS: H. Real Estate Vet Turning Reins Over

H. Edward Totzke believes home ownership builds good citizens and has passed that credo to two young men who will be taking over the real estate agency he founded 35 years ago.

Totzke, 74, announced yesterday his son, Thomas E. Totzke, 41, of Fairplain, and Richard A. Voss, 39, of St. Joseph, will be partners in the operation of the real estate firm. At the same time he announced the firm has moved to new quarters at 5661 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville, just south of John Beers road.

The senior Totzke will remain as a real estate consultant. The Totzke real estate firm had been located at 1687 Colfax avenue, near Napier, for over 30 years. Totzke first worked in the Downey real estate office, starting in 1931.

He said yesterday it is the real estate man's responsibility to convince people to own a piece of "this wonderful United States." He said pride of ownership will make better citizens of them and their children.

"That is why I am opposed to public housing," he said. "The better way is to teach people to own what they can afford."

Totzke was president of the Michigan Real Estate association in 1957 and president of the Real Estate Alumni of Michigan in 1963-64.

Both his son, Thomas, and Voss joined the firm 18 years ago. They have a staff of nine salespeople.

Plans are being studied to re-establish an office in the Fairplain area.

Shoreham Park Eyed By Horse Riders

The Shoreham village council last night asked residents to attend the Nov. 4 meeting to comment on a request to use its new park addition as a riding ring for horses.

Paul Landeck, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Landeck, 2334 Shoreham drive, and an avid horseman, asked the village council if the one and one-third acre lot given to the village for park purposes could be converted into a place where young horsemen could ride their mounts.

Young Landeck served as a spokesman for about a dozen young people who have horses or who ride as a hobby.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Rodgers of Dearborn Heights, Mich., last month gave the 375 by 200 foot plot which adjoins the four acre Shoreham Downs park.

The young equestrians promised to maintain the area if the riding ring is developed.

The council asked for village residents to attend the November session and give their reaction in person.

In other action the village council voted to join the Lakeshore Property Owners association and voted to reinvest a $10,000 treasury bill which matures in October.

Ex-Speaker Says Industry Fails To Provide Jobs

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

State Rep. William A. Ryan (D-Detroit) yesterday blamed industry for its failure to take efforts to achieve full employment and thus lower unemployment compensation and welfare rolls.

"If private industry will do its job of giving people jobs at a decent wage, then we, as the government, will not have to step in to fill the gaps of inadequacies to meet peoples' needs," the former Speaker of the House, told the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

The breakfast meeting at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn was punctuated by groups of opposition from Chamber members to Ryan's liberal stance.

Ryan's address was a counter-argument to State Sen. Charles O. Zoller's (R-Benton Harbor) Sept. 4 address to the Chamber in which Zoller charged that legislation backed by labor unions is making Michigan an undesirable state for industry.

Ryan said that he believed that the nation's 2,000 largest corporations had the ability, with governmental approval, to collectively come up with a plan to produce full employment.

"Some people believe that natural forces will straighten out the unemployment problem in time," Ryan said. "As long as that is the prevailing attitude, the problem is never going to be solved."

Ryan claimed Michigan industries' problems were not the result of the state's law structure but of the "collection of highly cyclical industries" in the state. He said that the best answer to the state's inability to attract new industry would be to diversify industry to reduce the tax bite on the state's automobile-oriented industries.

A philosophical rift between Ryan and Chamber members was apparent from the start. "I'm honored to be here," Ryan said in his introduction. "I think that this meeting promises an exchange between two political parties."

Ryan, however, said his political philosophy was that "what you in industry and we in government are trying to do is work together to try to make some 12 basic human available to everyone." Ryan said that he needs "thought he and the Chamber could agree that 'we, the government, shouldn't do what you, free enterprise, can accomplish.'"

Ryan was first elected to fill a vacancy in the House of Rep. in 1958. He was re-elected later that year and in each succeeding term. He was elected Democratic leader in 1967 and Speaker of the House in 1969, 1971 and 1973.

He has achieved national recognition in editing five major textbooks in literature which have been used by several million high school students.

Freier is the son of Mrs. Caroline Freier, East Britain avenue, Benton Harbor.

Lincoln Planners Endorse Ordinance

Lincoln township planning commission last night unanimously recommended a proposed new township zoning ordinance and map to the township board for adoption.

The action came after the commission made about 30 minor changes in the document which had been primarily raised during a public hearing Monday night.

Mrs. Bernice Tretheway, township clerk, said if the township board approves the proposed zoning ordinance and map it would take effect 30 days after the entire text is published. During that 30-day period residents of the township could petition to have the zoning ordinance and map before voters of the township for approval or disapproval.

In order for such a vote, petitions must be signed by not less than eight percent of the registered voters that cast ballots in the state gubernatorial race in the township in 1974, according to Mrs. Tretheway.

Mrs. Tretheway said, prior to the township board's vote on the matter, any township property owner can request a hearing on the proposed zoning ordinance by certified mail.

The township planning commission has spent nearly two years developing the proposed new zoning ordinance and map which will apply to all of Lincoln township with the exception of Stevensville village.

Sightmobile Will Visit Fairplain

The Lions Sightmobile will be at the Jewel-Osco parking lot Friday and Saturday to provide free vision screening under sponsorship of Fairplain Lions club.

Del Sinn, president of Fairplain Lions, said hours are 4-8 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at 756 East Napier avenue, Fairplain.

Vision screening is not an eye examination. The purpose is to determine if people need further professional care.

The screening takes about 10 minutes and is effective for people of all ages, Sinn said.

The Sightmobile is owned by district Lions clubs in seven counties of southwestern Michigan. More than 40,000 people have screened since the program started in 1969.

gauge their ability to do college work.

The Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude test/NATIONAL Merit Scholarship qualifying test will be given at Benton Harbor high school and Lakeshore high school on Tuesday, Oct. 21 and at St. Joseph high school on Saturday, Oct. 25.

Over a million other students around the world will be taking the test on those two days.

According to Robert Karns, guidance director at St. Joseph high school, Dorothy Hildebrand, guidance director at Lakeshore high school and Lawrence Schneider, director of guidance at Benton Harbor high school, the tests measure verbal and mathematical aptitude — two abilities important in doing college work.

The guidance directors noted the test can also lead to other opportunities. Students can enter competition for scholarships administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corp. They can participate in the College Board's Student Search Service which is used by hundreds of colleges interested in students who are interested in specific colleges. Students can also get a good idea of what the Scholastic Aptitude tests are like.

Along with their score reports students will receive a booklet that will guide them in estimating their scholastic aptitude scores, finding out where to get information about colleges and financial aids.

Students wishing to take the test can register with their guidance director.

MONDAY MUSICAL CLUB

America: Then And Now

By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor

Do-si-do's and "swing your partners" opened a red, white, and blue Bicentennial year for Monday Musical club Oct. 6. "America: Then And Now" was the theme for the program which opened the club's 1975-76 season at a salad luncheon at First Congregational United Church of Christ in St. Joseph.

A colorful and lively demonstration of square dancing opened the program. The four couples included Kathryn and Neil Turner, Dorothy and John Gieszer, Marcia Kasischke and William Rill, and Willa and Lewis Rott.

Mary Nee, commentator, noted that the colonists who because of their religious beliefs had very little recreation available, invented party or singing games which evolved into square dancing.

She said that since the homes were small and the "dancing" was held in many rooms, use of a caller became a popular way for all to dance together.

In the early 1900's, she said, ballroom dancing took precedence but after World War I, there was a revival of square dancing with Henry Ford as active participant in that revival.

Today's callers, Mrs. Nee said, have recorded music available with classical, popular, and country western music all in use.

She said there were over three million square dancing couples today — at all age levels.

She said today's western style dancing should not be confused with old fashioned barn dancing. Dances are no longer memorized but basic movements familiar to callers and dancers are combined to achieve either a challenging fast moving series of executed figures taxing the ingenuity of both caller and dancers or a singing call combining slower, more graceful movements.

First example of square dancing combined three hoe down dances as combined on record by local caller, Chuck Tippet, showing how dancing has progressed from one couple being active and dancing with one other couple around the square to two couples active and involving the other two.

The second dance was a modern — or Western — one testing both knowledge of steps and the skill of the performers and the third was a relaxing, singing call, offering each dancer an opportunity to "do his own thing."

Eight songs of America's heritage were beautifully sung by a trio composed of Myrth Kremers, Mary Lou Oppenorth, and Cathy Williamson. Esther Shoemaker was accompanist.

Songs included "The Riddle Song," a folk song from Kentucky; "Black Is The Color of My True Love's Hair," with Cathy Williamson as soloist; "Grandma Grunts," a North Carolina mountain song; "Kentucky Babe," Kentucky Lullaby.

Also "Colorado Trail," with Mary Lou Oppenorth as soloist; "Nobody Knows The Trouble I've Seen," Negro spiritual; "Dear Hearts And Gentle People," and "Sweet And Low."

"Excursions Op. 20" by widely performed American composer, Samuel Barber, was brilliantly executed by Daira Langens at the piano, rounding out the first of this year's special programs planned by the club to observe American's Bicentennial.

Monday Musical club is a member of both the state and national Federation of Music clubs.

Italian Cuisine Has Variety For Lasagna And Pizza Fans

Once in a while the urge to find something really different to prepare for dinner is overwhelming. We're ready to go to any lengths just to break the familiar cycle and come up with a dish that's entirely new — but guaranteed acceptable when offered.

Here's just such an idea, especially for those who love bread and cheeses. Accompanied by crisp green salad and a lightly chilled wine, this original hot dish makes an ideally different dinner.

While not exactly extemporaneous or instant, this bread-loaf lasagna is basically easy and worth every minute of shopping and assembling time. The final result yields eight hearty servings, but better count on refills after the first time around.

DOWN HOME BREAD LOAF LASAGNA

1 loaf (1 pound) unsliced white bread
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter or margarine

2 large onions, sliced
2 green peppers, cut in thin strips
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
1/2 cup blue cheese
1 package (3-oz.) cream cheese

1 1/2 cups (6-oz.) grated sharp cheddar cheese
One-third cup sour cream
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese

4 slices American cheese
4 slices Monterey Jack or Swiss cheese

Cut the unsliced bread lengthwise into five even slices. Melt the butter in a skillet and saute the onions, green pepper and mushrooms until soft, about 15 minutes. Meanwhile, in separate bowls, mix the blue cheese with cream cheese until well blended and spreadable. Mix the grated cheddar with the sour cream. Mix together the butter and grated parmesan cheese. Start preheating oven to 350 degrees.

To assemble, place the bottom slice of the bread loaf on a cookie sheet or flat pan. Arrange slices of American cheese on the bread, letting corners overhang the bread. Spread one-fourth of the vegetable mixture on top. Spread second slice of bread with blue/cream cheese mixture and place on stack; top with one-fourth of the vegetable mix. Place third bread slice on stack and arrange slices of Monterey Jack or Swiss cheese, letting corners overlap sides of bread; cover with one-fourth the vegetables. Spread fourth slice of bread with the cheddar/sour cream mixture and add to stack; top with remaining vegetables. Add the top crust slice of bread and cover with butter/parmesan mixture, letting butter drip over sides of stack.

Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes or until top is crusty and cheese is melted. Serve immediately by cutting into eight crosswise slices, using a sawing motion of a serrated knife.

Cooler weather means heart-ier appetites. And with the arrival of fall, you're probably looking for some easy economical way to fill your hungry family. With Pizzazz, you can do it on a shoestring.

The tangy sausage and tomato sauce is spiced with garlic, oregano and basil so you may think you're dining in Italy rather than at home. Mushrooms and onions — or even your own favorite pizza ingredients can be added to the sauce. Topped with Provolone or Mozzarella Cheese Biscuits, this entree needs only a salad and beverage for a complete meal.

Pizzazz is a super do-ahead meal. Make it in the morning and bake for dinner or freeze it for a buffet supper or hearty lunch. When frozen, simply allow 15 to 20 extra minutes for baking.

PIZZAZZ

1 pound bulk pork sausage
1 can (14 1/2-oz.) whole tomatoes, chopped
1 can (15-oz.) tomato sauce

1 can (4-oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
1/2 cup chopped onions
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon oregano
1 teaspoon basil
Cheese Biscuits

Parmesan or Romano cheese
Brown sausage, drain. Stir in tomatoes, tomato sauce, mushrooms, onions, garlic, sugar, oregano and basil. Bring to boil. Reduce heat; simmer uncovered for 1 hour. Pour into greased 7 1/2 by 11 1/2-inch baking dish. Top with Cheese Biscuits. Bake in preheated 450 degree oven 12 to 15 minutes. Serve with sauce topping biscuits. Sprinkle with Parmesan or Romano cheese.

Cheese Biscuits:

2 cups enriched flour (Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.)
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup shortening
1/2 to 3/4 cup milk
1/2 cup Mozzarella or Provolone cheese, shredded

Stir together dry ingredients. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Blend in milk to make soft dough. Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead gently 30 seconds. Roll out to 8 by 12-inch rectangle. Sprinkle with cheese. Roll up jellyroll fashion beginning with long side. Cut in 1/2-inch slices.

Note: If self-rising flour is used, omit baking powder and salt in biscuits.

If you think you can't eat one more penny out of your food budget, think again.

Perhaps you're serving more food and more red meat than your family needs. By cutting back portion sizes you can save money and build better health. You can extend meats with the new frozen bread dough now available.

Easy main dishes, made with frozen bread dough, are Deep Dish Pizza and Fortuna Ring. Or, for a meatless main dish, bake a loaf of frozen bread dough, cube it and dip the cubes in your favorite cheese fondue mixture.

DEEP DISH PIZZA

1 loaf frozen white bread dough
1 tablespoon oil
1/2 cup tomato sauce
1/2 cup canned tomatoes, chopped

DOWN HOME BREAD LOAF LASAGNA

1 pound ground beef
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
One-third cup chopped onions
One-third cup chopped mushrooms
8 ounces shredded or sliced Mozzarella cheese
1/4 cup grated Romano or Parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon oregano
1 teaspoon garlic powder
Salt and pepper

Let dough thaw and warm to room temperature. Shape into a round ball. Roll out to a 12-inch circle or shape to fit the baking dish. Grease baking dish (a 12-inch skillet or pizza pan, or a 13 by 9-inch baking pan). Place dough in baking dish and pat out to edges. Dough will be springy. Let rest for 12 to 25 minutes and pat out to edges again, repeating if necessary.

Combine tomato sauce and tomatoes; set aside. Brown beef; add green peppers, onions and mushrooms and cook until tender; set aside. When dough fits pan, make a ridge along edge so filling will not run out (do not make holes in dough). Spread with tomato mixture; then with meat mixture. Place Mozzarella cheese on top. Sprinkle with Romano or Parmesan cheese, oregano, garlic salt and pepper. Bake at 450 degrees for 20 minutes. Makes six servings.

FORTUNA RING

1 loaf frozen white bread dough
2 7-oz. cans tuna, drained
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese
1/4 cup chopped parsley or 2 tablespoons dried parsley flakes
2 tablespoons chopped pimientos

1 teaspoon celery salt
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 egg, slightly beaten
Let dough thaw and warm to room temperature. With fork, bake tuna into small pieces. Add onion, cheese, parsley, pimientos, salts and pepper. Mix well. Reserve two tablespoons of egg, setting aside. Add remaining egg to tuna mixture and mix well. Roll dough into a 16 by 10-inch rectangle. Spread with tuna mixture to within one inch of edges. Beginning from longest side, roll dough in jelly roll fashion; pinch to seal edges. Place on greased baking sheet and form a circle with ends touching. Make 12 cuts from outside edge to within one inch of inside edge. Turn each slice on its side to show filling. Brush with remaining beaten egg. Cover; let rise until doubled in size. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes or until golden brown. Garnish with parsley and serve warm with butter. Fresh sliced tomatoes are a perfect accompaniment. Makes eight servings (2 inch slice each).

Serve Chicken 'Hunter's Style'

Succulent, tender, subtle in flavor and having mouth-watering aroma, is Chicken Cacciatore. The famous Italian specialty whose title means "chicken, hunter's style," goes great with a green salad and but-buttered bread. The recipe for Chicken Cacciatore yields six servings, for an approximate cost of 79 cents a serving.

CHICKEN CACCIATORE

6 large pieces frying or broiling chicken
1/4 cup flour
2 tablespoons oil
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/2 clove garlic, finely minced
1/4 cup minced celery
1 teaspoon minced parsley
1 jar (21-oz.) red Italian cooking sauce
1/4 cup cherry or other dry white wine (optional)

Dredge chicken pieces in flour. Brown chicken pieces in large skillet in oil for 10 minutes on each side. Set chicken aside. In oil in skillet (adding a little more oil if necessary) saute onion, garlic, parsley and celery for five minutes. Add red Italian cooking sauce. Bring to simmer. Add chicken, cover and simmer 35 minutes. Add cherry, if desired, or an equivalent amount of water. Cover and simmer 10 more minutes or until chicken is tender.

Bake Venetian-Style Fish For 69 Cents A Serving

To prepare a wide variety of Italian entrees — be they meat, fish, poultry or vegetables — in a style that is truly Italian is easily within the capability of any American homemaker, with minimum effort. Few entrees could be simpler than Baked Fish, Venetian Style.

Since Italy is a country surrounded on three sides by salt water and boasting innumerable rivers and lakes, fish is abundant. Simplicity of preparation is often emphasized as it is in this recipe. Whether fresh or frozen fish is used, the end result is tantalizingly flavorful and the fish remains moist.

Baked Fish, Venetian Style provides six servings at an estimated cost of 69 cents a serving.

BAKED FISH, VENETIAN STYLE

1 jar (21-oz.) red Italian cooking sauce
2 lbs. cod or haddock (or other firm white fish), sliced evenly into 6 portions
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 medium onion, sliced
1 stalk celery, sliced

BENTON HARBOR

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

A Daughter's Trauma

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the mother whose husband can't stay out of the bathroom when his teenage daughters are showering or bathing really got to me. I owe it to every teenage girl in the world to tell my story.

That mother said her 14-year-old didn't seem to mind because she never complained. Well, maybe she has been threatened into silence — like I was.

You should have told Mom to get her crazy, sick husband out of the house before one or both of her daughters got raped.

Being sexually attacked by a stranger is bad enough, but when it's your own father it creates horrible, twisted feelings that hang in your head night and day. No one can imagine what an effect such an act can have on a young girl.

I was 12 when it happened to me. Now at 19, even after all the counseling, I still get sick to my stomach when a decent boy wants to hold my hand. I keep wondering if I'll ever be able to have a normal sex life.

If I were in that mother's place I'd order the father out of the house immediately and insist that he get psychiatric treatment. He could come back if and when the doctor said he was well. No man will ever jeopardize the children I hope to have someday. — Been Through It.

Dear B.T.I.: So have hundred of others, dear. I was chilled by the number of letters I received from young girls who wrote to say they had been sexually assaulted by their fathers.

Once again, I urge every girl who experiences such a trauma to tell her mother at once. If — and this may be hard to believe — your mother refuses to believe you, or will do nothing to protect you, call the police at once and let the law step in.

Early Birds

Dear Ann Landers: We hear a lot about people who can't seem to get anywhere on time. What about those who come early to dinner?

I love this couple dearly but they always louse me up by showing up at least 30 minutes ahead of time. Every hostess needs those 30 minutes to do her last minute chores before guests arrive.

I'd appreciate any word of advice you can offer. This has been going on for at least three years and — I Have Had It With The Early Birds.

Dear Had It: You write rather well so I assume you can also speak. The next time you invite the Early Birds for dinner tell Mrs. E.B. you'd appreciate it if they wouldn't arrive before the appointed hour because you need the extra time to get things ready.

If after that little speech, they STILL arrive early, let 'em lean on the bell awhile.

Wow-Power

Dear Ann Landers: May I offer a few words to the elderly?

Stop wasting precious time worrying about old age. It's part of life. Even children grow older every day. I have seen 88 summers but I refuse to remember the winters.

The secret of a happy life is to be useful. Get a part-time job. Develop a hobby. Do volunteer work in a hospital, nursing home or a place that helps delinquent or handicapped children.

Age represents knowledge and experience. The world needs you. Shut the door on uselessness and self pity. When you help others you best serve yourself. Enjoy life. It's beautiful. — Betty Dear Betty: Your message has Wow-Power. Thanks for a piece of solid philosophy.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It."

That Mitten String

At the end of August as we said good-bye to our college-bound son at the airport, I took him aside and said, "This is it, big guy. For the first time in your life you are on your own. You are free. Free to accept your own responsibility for your own actions. Free to budget your own time. Free to make your own mistakes. You owe Daddy and me nothing. From this moment on you are captain of your own destiny."

"What are you doing?" he asked as I slipped a string around his neck.

"This is a mitten string, and it has a pencil attached to each end. If you don't write us at least once a week, I'm filing a missing persons report."

A few days ago my husband asked: "How long has it been since we've gotten a letter from What's-his-name?"

"Your son?"

"That's the one."

"Forty-four days and I'm worried. I really am."

"Face it. He hates to write letters."

"It's your fault. You've been a teacher too long. I remember the letter he wrote from camp one summer. You corrected the spelling, gave him a C and sent it back."

"That's not true. It was a D."

Now, you readers may draw any conclusions you like, but I contend a mother is more realistic about her children than fathers. Below is an example.

Mother: "I think he hasn't written because he is cracking the books day and night. He is too consumptive and weak to hold a pencil."

Father: "He's partying."

Mother: "Perhaps he dropped his Bible on his foot and can't get to the post office to mail a letter."

Father: "His room has been endempered and him with it."

Mother: "Maybe he witnessed a murder and has to lay low."

Father: "He probably had less than 35 cents in his pocket and got picked up on the campus for vagrancy."

Mother: "He probably loaned out all of his personalized stationery."

Father: "He probably forgot our name and doesn't know how to spell 'occupant.'"

Mother: "I know something dreadful has happened to him or he would write."

Father: "I got it. He broke his mitten string."

Mother: "Now that's the most sensible thing you've said so far."

Dr. Lester Coleman

My uncle was taken to the hospital and is being treated for "left heart failure." What does this mean?

Miss U.B., Mo.

Dear Miss B.: I can understand your confusion. You probably assume that there is both a left heart and a right heart.

Actually, these are terms that have special meaning to doctors only. They refer to the two sides of the heart.

The heart has four chambers, with two auricles and two ventricles. There is one auricle and one ventricle on each side of the heart.

Blood that circulates through the body, bringing vital oxygen to all its parts, is then returned to the "right heart." The "right heart" muscle now pumps this blood into the lungs to reaccumulate more oxygen.

Then the newly oxygenated blood enters the chambers of the "left heart," which again pumps the blood to all the distant parts of the body.

"Left heart failure" simply means that the muscle of the left side of the heart, or ventricle, is not strong enough to adequately pump blood.

This results in a damming back of the blood and interference with proper circulation.

I thought that spinal anesthesia is no longer used. Wasn't this given up because it was dangerous?

Mr. T.K., La.

Dear Mr. K.: Spinal anesthesia is still used for many operations below the waist.

Many surgeons prefer spinal anesthesia for operations on the bladder, the prostate, for hernias, and for hemorrhoids.

Spinal anesthesia, known as "epidural and caudal block," is also used as a local anesthetic for patients who are considered high risks for general anesthesia.

It is remarkably safe and effective. It is not dangerous.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH. Bad posture must be corrected early. Long-lasting effects on the body structure can thus be avoided.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "What to Do About Ulcers." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Van Buren's Red Cross Lauded On Its Comeback

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

SOUTH HAVEN—Van Buren county's chapter of the Red Cross is alive and doing well.

That was the message conveyed to some 65 people on hand last night for the county chapter's 58th annual meeting held at the Red Carpet restaurant.

"This chapter since I've been associated with it in January has come a long, long way," Henry Maurer, a regional Red Cross executive, told the gathering.

"I heard then that the chapter might have to fold. But you went to work and raised enough money to continue through the end of the year and on into the new year."

Last January the Van Buren chapter was nearly $10,000 in debt, but was able to mount a drive in March which raised about $20,000.

Van Buren Juvenile Court Judge Meyer Warshawsky, last night's featured speaker, said the answer to stopping juvenile crime would not come from pouring huge sums of money into programs, but rather by giving children who are now failures a chance to succeed.

Noting that 83.6 per cent of the juveniles he handles are from broken homes, Warshawsky said the problems of many young people today are simply the result of parents who don't care. The judge said children should be held accountable for their actions, but that at the same time the emotional problem which caused them to get into trouble should be found and dealt with.

Elected as officers for the chapter last night were Mrs. Vivian LeRoy, Paw Paw, executive secretary; Rev. LeRoy Hoover, Paw Paw, chairman; Jack DeMorrow, Hartford, vice-chairman; Mrs. Evelyn Falan, Paw Paw, secretary; and Robert F. Wagner, Lawton, treasurer.

Bounty Offered On Dads

DETROIT (AP)—Wayne County officials are offering $20 to mothers who turn in absent fathers with offspring receiving Aid to Dependent Children funds.

Under a federal law effective last August, the county keeps 25 per cent of all the money it can collect from missing fathers who are supposed to support their families.

Previously, all the money had to be given to the state as reimbursement for the ADC payments.

Officials said they expect the county to cut its budget deficit from $3.1 million to $2.1 million by Nov. 30 by taking the absent fathers to court.

Special awards went to Richard Showman, Hartford, who headed the March fund drive; Dr. Maurice Buskirk, Paw Paw, who has been the county medical association's representative to the chapter for the last five years; and John Tapper, Sr., Paw Paw, who donated space for the chapter's offices in Paw Paw.

It was noted that 43 Red Cross volunteers contributed a total of 4,458 hours in service at Lake View Community hospital during the year, and that 1,809 pints of blood were collected during 14 Bloodmobile visits in the county.

John Bright, a South Haven teacher, provided entertainment last night by singing several selections from Fiddler on the Roof.

Bangor School Committee Recommendation Rejected

By STEVE McQUOWN
Staff Writer

BANGOR—The Bangor school board has rejected a citizens' committee recommendation that it hire a business manager and eliminate the position of assistant superintendent.

Furthest Gough, the board's secretary, announced late yesterday the board's reaction to committee recommendations.

He said the board reached its decision during a Monday night work session.

Gough added, however, that the board has agreed to one committee recommendation: That school job openings be advertised locally for 15 days before someone is hired.

On Sept. 25, the 12-member citizens' committee made public its majority report that included five recommendations.

Among them were that the board ask for the resignation of Supt. Howard Beyer; that the position of assistant superintendent be eliminated in favor of a business manager; the board review its policy of hiring family members; school job openings be advertised for 15 days before being filled; and that the board adopt a $1,786,517 budget and restore most of the programs the board had previously said the school could not afford this year.

The board on Sept. 29 declared it would not ask for Beyer's resignation.

Its action of Monday night keeps the school's top two administrators in their present jobs, contrary to committee recommendations.

Gough said the board decided not to hire a business manager because the duties are now being handled by Beyer and Frederick Stup, the assistant superintendent who is also curriculum director.

He said a new accounting process and business management practices are being developed to conform to state procedures that become effective July 1, 1976.

On the budget, the board set aside the committee recommendation until a teachers' contract is settled, Gough said.

The board earlier this year adopted a tentative budget of $1,838,972, but when three successive tax levy proposals were rejected by voters, 12 teaching positions and athletic programs were cut by the board.

Lebanese Cease-Fire Shattered

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The cease-fire between Lebanon's warring Christian and Moslem factions broke down today as heavy fighting erupted in two areas of Beirut. One mortar round exploded near a hospital in a Moslem district, leaving several dead and wounded, witnesses said.

A five-day lull—broken only by scattered incidents and an unsuccessful hijack attempt by Arab terrorists at Beirut airport—ended in the early hours as Moslem and Christian gunmen started pounding away at each other with automatic weapons and mortars.

The fighting is mainly over the Palestinian presence in Lebanon. The Muslims support the guerrillas; the Christians do not.

ARRIVES: Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme arrives at the Federal courthouse in Sacramento, Calif., Tuesday for pre-trial hearing. She demanded a new lawyer to defend her against charge of attempting to kill President Ford. (AP Wirephoto)

The 12-member citizens' committee has claimed that the board could adopt a $1,786,517 budget for the coming school year and restore 10 of 12 teaching positions and all athletic programs except football, girls' basketball and cross country track.

The board reaction to citizen committee recommendations could be discussed when the board meets in regular session this coming Monday night, Gough said.

Pine Grove Reviews Mobile Home Rules

GOBLES—Pine Grove township board last night reviewed an ordinance which requires mobile home owners who remove the wheels from the homes to get a permit.

The board said that under the township ordinance, once the wheels are removed from a mobile home it is considered a permanent home and a building permit is required. The permits can be obtained from Ivan Ray, building inspector.

Persons wishing to put a mobile home in the township must first contact either Ray or David Slack, township zoning administrator, to see that all township ordinances are met. The township board reviewed the requirements after being informed mobile homes were popping up throughout the township with no regard for township rules and regulations concerning their placement.

In other areas, Ed Schmidt of 6th avenue, township resident, told the board it was his understanding that petitions requesting the blacktopping of 6th avenue had been presented to the board some time ago.

The board said it had never received or seen such petitions. Schmidt said he would check into the matter.

Welfare Abuse Is Target Of Lansing Rally

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Organizers of a rally slated for the Capitol next week say they hope 500 to 1,000 people will show up to protest welfare abuse.

The rally will be at noon Oct. 15, two days after the legislature returns from its summer vacation. Republican organizers hope it will pressure lawmakers to take action on welfare reform legislation.

The originator of the rally, Sen. Robert Young, R-Saginaw, and Senate Minority Leader Robert Davis of Gaylord held a news conference Tuesday to announce the event.

Several Senate Republican staff members spent the last several weeks contacting local organizations and individuals trying to round up support for the rally.

They have been helped by several organizations, including the Michigan Farm Bureau, Michigan Townships Association and the state Chamber of Commerce.

Supporters are circulating petitions urging the legislature to enact a tightened welfare program.

"This issue transcends partisan politics," Davis said. "We don't want to do anything to hurt the legitimate recipient."

Davis said legislation he has introduced could save the state up to $75 million a year, although he said it would take an extra 1,500 caseworkers in the Department of Social Services.

The bill, however, is stalled in a Senate committee.

It would require photo identification cards for welfare recipients, unannounced visits to the homes of recipients by welfare workers, renewed eligibility every six months, more information from recipients and reduction of future grants to recoup overpayments.

Local Chamber Delegates Will Join In Rally

The Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce will make its seventh annual Lansing trip Oct. 15 in conjunction with the citizen rally to end welfare abuse, according to atty. Henry Gleiss, chamber vice president of governmental affairs.

Gleiss said this year's trip consists of four main events. The first is a citizen rally to end welfare abuse at the State Capitol at noon. Gleiss stressed the rally is not intended to eliminate welfare for the truly needy, but to urge removal of the abuses in the welfare system.

The rally will be followed by two business sessions. The first, scheduled for 2 p.m. at Long's banquet and convention center, will be on the single business tax. Robert Klein of the office of revenue and tax analysis, and Dr. Doug Roberts, administrative aid of the House taxation committee, will explain the new Michigan single business tax and how its structure will affect business.

The second session at 3:30 will be conducted by Edward Wolf, the Budd Co., and Allen Strohmaier, General Motors corporation, on workman's compensation.

These sessions will be followed by a reception and dinner where Twin City business, professional and industrial people will have an opportunity to meet with state officials and lobby for matters of area concern.

Gleiss said busses will leave Sears parking lot at 9 a.m. and return following the reception and dinner. Reservations for the trip can be made by calling the chamber offices.

Teen Chief Tackles Top Problem

BUNNELL, Fla. (AP) — Police Chief Donald Brock says he's ordering an immediate crackdown on this eastern coastal community's No. 1 crime problem — juvenile delinquency. And Brock should know as much as anyone about solving the problem. He's a teen-ager himself.

"The biggest problem we're facing is keeping the juvenile crime rate down," says the 19-year-old police chief. "There is no organized recreation for teen-agers in this city or county. And with nothing else to do, the kids turn to crime."

Brock, a graduate of Bunnell High School and a veteran of 400 hours of police training at Daytona Beach Community College, served as acting police chief of the six-member force in this town of 1,500 for six weeks after the former chief resigned.

The five-member Bunnell Council voted unanimously Monday night to make Brock permanent police chief.

"I'll stay as long as I'm able, physically and mentally. It's an accomplishment for the 18-to 19-year-old group, and they need the encouragement," Brock said Tuesday.

He said reaction to his appointment has ranged from indifference to enthusiasm.

"Nobody's balked. As long as I do my share and live up to my part of the deal, I don't expect they will," he said.

"We're a small town, but we have the same problems as any town. We need the support of the people and the kids' attention, which we haven't been getting. "The only thing we can do is start working with the kids, but the law can't do it alone. As long as we work together, we won't have any problems."

Brock, a bridegroom of 10 months, said he has "always wanted to be a policeman. "I had to leave my studies at the community college some months ago because a change in command at the police department was anticipated. I am two semesters short of a two-year degree."

Pesticide Ban 'Not To Blame'

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Bans on pesticides such as DDT are not to blame for this summer's outbreak of mosquito-carried encephalitis, Environmental Protection Agency Director Russell Train said Tuesday.

There have been 12 confirmed cases of St. Louis encephalitis in Michigan in the last two months, according to state health officials.

CHIEF DONALD BROCK A juvenile problem

Sex Style Mirrors Lifestyle

CHICAGO (AP) — Sexual behavior reflects lifestyles and is a mirror of the way people live, according to a Utah psychologist.

Dr. Ernst G. Beier, coauthor with writer Evans G. Valens of a recently published book called "People-Reading," said in an interview that sexual impotency and frigidity, for example, are often acts of aggression rather than physical disability.

He said a person who is generally concerned about others is also concerned about the pleasure of a sexual partner. And the person who enjoys danger and risk-taking may seek sexual relations under dangerous or risky conditions.

"Whatever the psychosexual attitude, they reflect a lifestyle the woman or man experience not only while making love but in most other significant encounters as well," Beier wrote.

"When a person claims that a lover's touch is repulsive, for example, this individual is probably also in the habit of keeping her or his distance in areas that are not in the least sexual."

Riegle Begins Long Road To Senate Nomination

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Don Riegle began the long road to next year's primary election Tuesday by publicly saying four times what he will say a thousand times more — why he should be in the U.S. Senate.

Riegle, a fifth-term Congressman from Flint, faced the cameras in four different cities and spoke earnestly about idealism and equal opportunity and changing national priorities.

More than anything else, Riegle's expected formal announcement for the Democratic nomination represented the kickoff off the new election year in Michigan — a year which will end in 13 months with the election of a new senator, congressional show-downs, reshuffling of the state house and innumerable other battles, small and large.

The former Republican is the second announced contender for the seat to be vacated by the retiring Philip Hart, but the first who is expected to be a major participant. Although state Sen. John Otterbacher of Grand Rapids announced long ago and is working hard, most figure Riegle's main opponent will be Congressman James O'Hara of Udon.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and Secretary of State Richard Austin, also are considered possibilities.

Riegle, 37, does not strike out in startling directions on the issues like, say, California Gov. Jerry Brown. Rather, he is more an orthodox throwback to the youthful Kennedy image, trimly dressed with hair modishly long.

In a sweltering press room jammed more with campaign workers than reporters, Riegle echoed some of the traditional Democratic themes: a tax cut without a federal spending cut, "more and better jobs," educational improvement and giving everybody "a chance to develop their unique potential."

Judging Team Sues To Compete

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A team judged best in Michigan at evaluating dairy cattle is suing for the right to seek national honors.

An Oct. 23 hearing is scheduled before U.S. District Court Judge Wendell Miles as the Hastings High School team tries to prevent the Michigan Future Farmers of America from sending any other team to the national meet.

The state organization disqualified Hastings for the national event at Kansas City, Mo., next month on grounds one team member, Lisa Smith, judged a national 4-H contest.

George Hubka, a Hastings High School teacher and the team's adviser, said the national rule banning those judging other national contests was dropped by the Future Farmers about three years ago.

"Michigan has kept it in its rules illegally," he contended.

While the ban might be expected to drive away prospective customers, Zurkowski says it actually is attracting tavern-goers from all parts of the Milwaukee area.

Americans Need Less Schooling, Educator Says

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

American schools provide more formal education than a student needs, and high school or college should be shortened by a year or more, says a former U.S. commissioner of education.

Harold Howe II, who held the top education post from 1965 to 1968, also said Tuesday that adults should be allowed a year or more of education later in life.

Speaking at a four-day conference sponsored by the Washington Journalism Center, Howe, now a vice president of the Ford Foundation, said that 16 years of U.S. education — starting at age 6 and ending at 21 — is a luxury no other country has.

"People get fed up with classrooms after being in them for 16 years," he said, adding that it would be preferable for adults to be allowed a year of formal education at government expense when they are more mature and in a better position to appreciate it.

Howe also said he suspects television is responsible for the decline in national test scores among students.

"No one knows why the scores are going down," he said. "But we're now seeing a generation that has been watching television throughout its life-time."

He added that many children watch TV four to six hours a day while children from lower-income families watch even more.

Howe predicted that when schools are asked where the fault of lower test scores lie, they will respond with a "back-to-basics" movement and by becoming more strict.

"They'll regiment kids and force learning down their throats," he said. "And kids will do what they've always done — throw it up."

In other comments, Howe said he thinks the women's movement will have a growing impact on the nation's schools.

"Some think it's a fad and will disappear," he said. "I disagree. I think it's a major movement in American society. It's a large scale enterprise that will affect textbooks, guidance and staffing in the schools, particularly at upper levels — principals and superintendents. The models kids usually see now are men."

Howe also said some major research foundations at big universities are in deeper financial trouble than many people realize.

Many of them are dropping schools, departments and cutting corners in instruction, research and planning, he said.

"Nobody in the federal government plans for these institutions even though it (the government) provides 40 to 50 per cent of the funding," he said.

"With their costs going up 8 per cent and their income going up 5 per cent, I think they're in deep trouble."

Weekend Guest Departs; Family Is Still Uneasy

CHARLOTTE, Mich. (AP) — Although a skunk which made itself an unwelcome weekend guest has gone, the Tim Gould family fears the neighboring black and white creature may still be lurking nearby.

"I think it might have gone into the garage," said a relieved Judy Gould of the skunk that made a home Saturday in the family's window well and didn't come out until Tuesday morning.

Her husband, Tim, a lifttruck driver at Lansing's Oldsmobile plant, spotted the black-and-white skunk burrowing into the window-well last Saturday. He liked the animal but feared undue agitation could cause it to stink up the basement for a long time.

So, Gould solicited the advice of friends, the state Department of Natural Resources and police on how to extricate the creature without fumigating the basement.

Advice ranged from shooting it to filling the well with water, throwing in ammonia or piping in exhaust fumes.

Meanwhile, in a conscience conflict that beset the Goulds and their 4-year-old son Ryan, the family fed the young skunk and got sort of fond of it, at arms length.

"I don't want him killed. I kind of like the little fellow," Gould said at one point, peering nervously into the well and watching the animal burrow deeper.

Gould finally figured victory lay through the digestive track and placed an aromatic egg nearby. Mrs. Gould said. Soon the sniffing skunk emerged.

Mrs. Gould didn't speculate on problems facing the family car should the skunk, as feared, have moved into the garage.

"At least it didn't stink up the house while it was here," she said philosophically.

Provocation 'Out' At UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The president of the General Assembly wants lower tempers when kings or presidents of countries speak.

Chiefs of state should avoid making provocative speeches because rebuttals will be discouraged, the assembly president, Prime Minister Gaston Thorn of Luxembourg, said.

And even on the 7th day they don't rest.

Since January 1975, these people have been working 7 days a week, on 3 shifts, to make lids for home canning jars.

That's how hard we've been trying at Ball to meet the demand.

Ball has increased production of replacement lids by 30% over last year because of the effort these people have given.

Even so, some people haven't been able to buy enough lids.

If you have any extra lids, won't you please share them with your neighbor.

HUD Chief: No Quick Solutions On Abandoned Homes

By TOM RAUM

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carla A. Hills, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, said Tuesday she is taking steps to alleviate the problem of abandoned HUD-owned homes which blight many urban neighborhoods.

But she told a House subcommittee the problem is one of massive proportions and that Congress should not expect a quick solution.

She made the comments in outlining what HUD is doing to improve its handling of mortgages to low-income families and its maintenance of HUD-owned properties, especially in the Chicago and Detroit areas. Rep. William M. Brodhead, D-Mich., said homes acquired by HUD as a result of mortgage foreclosures pose a "huge problem" for Detroit. He said the boarded-up homes are a haven for vandals and rats, lower neighborhood property values and present a general eyesore to the community.

"There are enough vacant HUD-owned homes in Detroit to house a city of 50,000 persons," Brodhead claimed.

"HUD is working in a team to conquer these inner-city problems," the HUD secretary said. "We will see great improvement — not only in Detroit but in other major cities."

She said a special task force has been formed to work on the Detroit problem. One-fifth of all HUD-owned vacant homes are in the Detroit metropolitan area, according to Brodhead.

Mrs. Hills said efforts are being made to require better maintenance of these properties — including a requirement that an area HUD manager inspect each property within five days after it is conveyed to HUD. This applies nationwide, she said.

Another task force is at work in Chicago to deal with a variety of HUD problems related to mortgages there, she said. It was created after articles last June and July in the Chicago Tribune criticized Chicago HUD operations, she said.

Mrs. Hills said that HUD's own investigation bore out many of the allegations of the Tribune articles — including those that HUD had been inadequately monitoring the maintenance of its vacant properties.

HUD is also attempting to step up its program of selling many of these properties in their "as is" condition, with the buyers agreeing to make the needed repairs, she testified.

But problems of abandoned HUD-owned homes should not be blamed entirely on current HUD officials, she said. They are the legacy "of a production strategy from 1969 to 1973 where we literally put people into homes when they were not ready for it," Mrs. Hills testified. Under various HUD programs, mortgage companies were encouraged to loan money to low-income families, with HUD agreeing to make up any losses to the firm — including taking possession of the property — in the event of defaults, she said.

"The committee should recognize that there are inherent difficulties in insuring mortgages for low-income families and in declining urban areas," she said. "I do not pretend that we have overcome all of these difficulties."

Brodhead told her that HUD officials in Detroit had been sluggish and unresponsive to complaints and that the entire program seemed "strangled in red tape."

Hijacker Is Filipino Airman

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — The young gunman who hijacked a Philippine jetliner on a domestic flight Tuesday is an air force enlisted man, the air force chief said today.

Airline sources said Airman 2nd Class Camilo Morales, 25, was able to board the Philippine Airlines plane with a pistol and grenade because he was known to security officers at Davao airport.

Lawmakers May Override Budget Vetoes--Milliken

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken acknowledged Tuesday that the legislature may override some of the budget items he vetoed last month.

"There is some possibility of an override of my vetoes...We are studying it," Milliken said in an interview.

Referring to his vetoes, Milliken said, "I don't think they are necessarily secure."

The biggest targets of veto overrides will be an optometry school for Ferris State College and new State Police post for Detroit, Milliken said.

Milliken struck out $1.3 million for health programs at Ferris State, including $211,000 for a planned optometric school.

Milliken has said he wants to reinstate all the money, except for the optometric school funds.

Despite his veto, the school opened this fall with an enrollment of about 21 students.

State Sen. John Topp of Cadillac, a Republican like Milliken, has said he may try to get the legislature to override the optometric school veto.

The governor also vetoed about $2 million for establishing a new State Police post in crime-ridden Detroit.

A gubernatorial veto has not been overridden since 1951, legislative sources say. An override would require 74 votes in the House which has a 66-44 Democratic majority, and 26 in the Senate, which is 24-14 top-heavy with Democrats.

Democratic legislators say they are studying the possibility of attacking some of Milliken's vetoes but have not definitely said they will attempt overrides.

Dutch Firm Offers Exit For Executive's Captors

LIMERICK, Ireland (AP) — A Dutch firm is offering to fly the kidnappers of one of its executives out of Ireland in a company jet if they agree to release him unharmed for a ransom.

But official sources said the government is reluctant to approve such a move even if the kidnappers accept the offer to free Tiede Herrema, 53-year-old head of the Ferrenka steel plant in Limerick.

Herrema was kidnaped Friday and threatened with death unless three members of the Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army were freed from prison. The government refused to meet the demands.

The dragnet for Herrema intensified as hundreds more police and troops with helicopters joined the hunt. The IRA, which has condemned the kidnaping, also is hunting for the kidnapers, presumably to kill them for discrediting the movement.

The target of the dragnet is Eddie Gallagher, a former Provisional expelled by the IRA when he challenged guerrilla leaders following his escape from a top security prison last year.

He is believed to be the common-law husband of Rose Dugdale, one of the prisoners whose release the kidnappers demanded. He is also believed to be the father of her son, Ruari, born 10 months ago in Limerick Prison.

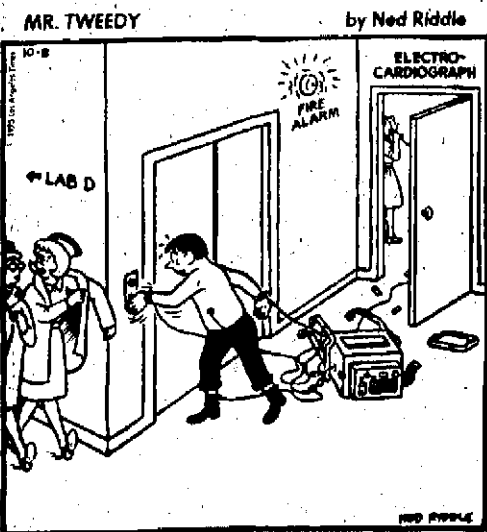

The baby was reported to have been moved to a hideout outside Dublin on Tuesday after a mystery group threatened to execute relatives of the three IRA prisoners named by the kidnappers. In addition to Miss Dugdale, the prisoners are Kevin Mallon and Jim Hyland.

Spokesmen for Ferrenka's Dutch parent company, Azko, said Tuesday that two telephone calls that Herrema's 28-year-old son, Jelle, claimed to have received from the gang after a Sunday deadline passed saying his father was alive were hoaxes.

It said young Herrema miscontrued the calls because he was "very tired and virtually dreaming" after a sleepless vigil.

A government source said if Herrema is dead, "it would be one of the most extreme threats yet made to the stability of the state. Obviously action would have to be taken."

Latinos Rally For Bilingual Education

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A lack of bilingual education programs in the state's public schools sparked a state Capitol protest today from some 300 Michigan Latinos.

The protest was planned despite promises from the state school superintendent that he will try to rev up the sputtering bilingual education commitment, ordered by the legislature.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction John W. Porter also has revised by 180 districts his August estimate of how many districts should provide bilingual instruction.

Bilingual education was required by an October, 1974, law for all Michigan school districts with 30 or more students who speak little English.

Although the law was effective Sept. 1, no school district in the state has begun a program. The districts, the state Department of Education, and the legislature all say they have no money to fund the program.

In an August press release, which Porter Tuesday called "unfortunate," he estimated 232 districts qualified and would begin bilingual programs this fall.

But Tuesday Porter said only 52 of the state's 530 districts have said they qualify by law to begin the programs. Another 37 said they'd like to start programs but aren't required to by law, Porter said.

"Frankly we just didn't have the insight during the first survey (in August)," he said.

One official said 75 districts have not responded to a state survey and some 350 said their figures showed they weren't required to offer bilingual instruction.

Porter said it was "unlikely" those districts have many foreign speaking students though follow-up letters have been sent asking them to "take another look." Citizens should contact the state department if they think a district should offer bilingual instruction, Porter said.

The Latino rally, said Jesse Guzman, Lansing rally coordinator, will demonstrate the frustration of parents over the failure of bilingual education in the state despite official promises.

Guzman said Porter merely rubber-stamped requests from his department's Latino advisory committee in an attempt to defuse the rally.

Porter agreed to include a $250,000 request in next year's budget for a bilingual center, and at least $500,000 to help districts fund their programs.

He also said he would establish a parents advisory committee on bilingual education.

Porter said he is in "full support of the rally."

Reading Phillip Knightley's "The First Casualty" (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich) reminded me of the vigilante committee in a frontier town which announced that any lawbreakers would be lynched. Subtitled "From the Crimea to Vietnam: the War Correspondent as Hero, Propagandist, and Myth-maker," this volume has the ostensible purpose of deploring biased war reporting. Its premise is clear: the correspondent should be independent, should insulate himself from whatever moral issues may be at stake, should write the truth and let the chips fall where they may.

On the basis of these criteria he demolishes the coverage of fighting up to and including World War II. However, in dealing with Korea and Algeria, he works himself into a frenzy, and by the time Vietnam is over he is frothing at the mouth. Similarly the cold, objective style of the first two-thirds of the book — the form recommended for war reporters — shifts with World War II into subjective sermonizing. Apparently the cold war made him hot.

Let us first look at the good two-thirds of the book in which Knightley demonstrates beyond a reasonable doubt that most of the coverage given to wars from the Crimea to World War II was either propaganda based on partial truths or sheer fiction. He is as hard on the left-wing bias of reporters covering the Spanish Civil War as he is on the conservative lap dogs the British papers sent to cover World War I.

In dealing with the bombing of British cities in World War II, he emphasizes the little-known fact that the first Nazi raid on London was an accident for which the aircrews were punished (and, though he doesn't mention it, Radio Berlin apologized). In contrast, the British reprisal raid on Berlin was deliberate "city-busting." He correctly condemns the stupidity of most censorship, but falls in my judgment to appreciate its necessity under extraordinary circumstances.

The U.S. Navy, for example, won the Battle of Midway because we had cracked the Japanese code. A detailed story in the "Chicago Tribune" by Stanley Johnson (who had not been there, but by brilliant detective work figured out precise Japanese losses) did in fact lead the authorities in Tokyo to investigate their communications security. Fortunately they determined their codes were unbreakable. For the government to try to get Johnson under the espionage act was an absurd by-product of F.D.R.'s blood feud with publisher Robert McCormick — but Johnson might have considered checking his story with the censors. Knightley takes a dim view of this sort of subversive behavior, but then at times he seems to think war is a form of touch football.

These objections aside, Knightley's narrative is extremely interesting — until he gets to Korea and blows his cool. He revives, for instance, the old phony comparison between the behavior of American and Turkish prisoners of war in Chinese and North Korean detention. The GIs were craven, the Turks tough — so the story runs. The problems with it are 1) the Americans were drafted, literally thrown untrained into Korea, and the Communists worked extremely hard on them to get political warfare material, while, 2) the Turks were professional soldiers and were virtually ignored by the Communists because their "confessions" would carry no weight in an agit-prop campaign. Indeed, the Communists had no interrogator who could speak Turkish? Knightley also gives tentative credence to two stories which even the Communists have long since abandoned: that South Korea started the war, and that we engaged in air warfare. One of the reasons the South Koreans were hit so hard was that, in order to prevent any adventurism on their part, we had denied them gasoline.

Knightley's treatment of Algeria and Vietnam falls into the same strange category. He can go on endlessly about American atrocities at My Lai with no mention whatsoever of the Blue Massacre of anti-Communists. He even considers Phnom Penh an authority on Vietnam although her "Fire in the Lake" has been derided as sheer fiction by Asian scholars who opposed the war. Why? What made this sadistic observer of human follies come ideologically equipped?

New Federal Prison Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Prisons has appointed Jack A. Hanberry as warden of the federal prison in Milan, Mich., director Norman A. Carlson announced this week. Hanberry, 39, succeeds Herbert S. Beall, who will take charge of a new section in the bureau's Washington headquarters. The section will focus on improving jail conditions for federal prisoners awaiting trial. Hanberry has been associate warden at the federal prison in Texarkana, Tex., since last December and joined the federal prison system in 1963.

exhaust system. A polo victim and her three small children died in the car from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Stella Louise Evans, 20, and her children died in the car sold by National Motor Co. The car was a gift to Mrs. Evans, who could operate an auto only with special controls. After a preliminary hearing, District Court Judge Robert Edmiston ruled that Darryl Cates, the firm's owner, must appear for arraignment Oct. 20.

He said a dealer has "the obligation to see that car meets the standards of the Department of Public Safety before it is sold. To fail ... that obligation is criminally irresponsible and culpably negligent."

Cates said he knew nothing about inspecting a car. He said he employed a safety inspector licensed by the state and that all cars on his lot are reconditioned and inspected before they are sold.

Hirohito Gets Feel Of America's Soil

By CHRIS J. HARPER
Associated Press Writer
PLAINFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Emperor Hirohito, once considered a god in his native Japan, tasted America's most powerful mayor, visited a farm family and played with a piglet on a day-long visit to the nation's heartland.

The 74-year-old monarch and Empress Nagako arrived in Chicago on Tuesday, with Secret Service agents and about 1,000 police officers on guard duty.

The royal couple began a 15-day tour of the United States on Sept. 30. They were to leave at 8 a.m. CDT today for Los Angeles and will visit San Francisco and Honolulu before returning to Japan on Monday.

Two men were arrested for carrying concealed weapons during the Chicago visit, but officials said neither man posed any threat to the emperor and his wife.

After a colorful parade featuring horsemen and bands along Lake Michigan, Hirohito told a luncheon that Chicago and the Midwest hold an "important role as a world center of economic activities."

The emperor, the first Japanese monarch ever to visit the United States, exchanged toasts with Mayor Richard J. Daley at the luncheon, attended by about 700 civic and local Japanese leaders.

Hirohito left the luncheon with U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz for a tour of farms near Plainfield, about 35 miles southwest of Chicago, while Empress Nagako toured Wyler's Children's Hospital and the Chicago Art Institute.

The emperor spent about 30 minutes at the 750-acre spread of Donald and Bernice Baltz and about the same amount of time at the farm owned by the Baltz son, John, 34.

"Who'd think an emperor would come to a farm, especially our farm?" said Marianne Baltz, 33, John Baltz's wife.

The elder Baltz, 57, clad in a work shirt and dungarees, washed the dirt off his hands to greet the emperor. "We realize it's a little more than the next-door neighbor coming to visit you," Baltz said, but he had promised to keep his usual attire intact for the visit.

Hirohito watched the harvesting of soybeans, one of Japan's major imports from the United States, and stood atop a combine to wave at well-wishers lined up along rural roads.

Hirohito then traveled a quarter of a mile away to the younger Baltz' 1,700-acre farm, which resembles an American setting like a Norman Rockwell painting with a century-old house and two red barns.

Baltz' 12-year-old son, James, said he wanted to learn some Japanese phrases to greet the emperor but "it gave me a headache after a while so I gave up trying."

Hirohito watched the harvesting of corn, viewed some of Baltz' 600 hogs and 35 cattle, held one of the children's piglets and petted their rabbit.

GOP Governor Gets Lecture On Budgets

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, having urged a new tax-cut plan tied to curbs in federal spending, rejected a Republican governor's request for more federal funds and gave him a blunt lecture on balanced budgets.

Ford, who announced plans earlier this week for what he said was "the biggest single tax cut in our history," met Tuesday with seven Appalachian state governors in Knoxville, Tenn., and immediately was confronted with a plea for funds.

West Virginia Gov. Arch Moore told Ford more federal money is needed to keep Appalachian highway projects on schedule. Ford wryly recalled that most of the governors in the room had agreed with a Southern Governors Conference resolution calling for a constitutional amendment requiring balanced federal budgets.

Ford said, "Fellows, we can't have it both ways." He said the government faces federal deficits in the current fiscal year of up to $70 million, adding, "If you have back-to-back deficits of $70 billion, you're going to have more and more and more troubles in trying to finance your own state and municipal governments."

As the President was touting his new tax cut and spending curb proposal, his proposal was meeting with sour comments from Congress.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., called Ford's plan "an impossible one."

A Ways and Means subcommittee chairman, Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, criticized Ford's proposals to reduce corporate taxes and released figures showing that 142 major corporations paid less than half the standard corporate tax rate of 48 per cent last year. Vanik said eight companies paid no taxes while 18 others paid at a rate of 10 per cent or less.

Ford proposed enactment of $28 million in permanent tax cuts for 1976 if Congress will agree to an identical cut in federal spending. He would require establishment of a $395 billion spending ceiling for the fiscal year beginning next Oct. 1.

FLUORIDE OPPONENT: Mrs. Martha Johnson, executive secretary of Michigan Pure Water Council, Lansing, told Watervliet city commission people should not be forced to drink fluoridated water.

FOES SEEK PUBLIC VOTE

Watervliet Fluoridation Opposed

WATERVLLET — A group of Watervliet city residents appeared before the Watervliet city commission last night to object to city plans to add fluoride to the city water system as part of a water system improvement project.

Alton Howard, 332 South Main street, Watervliet, identified himself as the head of an anti-fluoridation committee in the city and called for the commission to hold a public vote on whether fluoride should be added to the water system.

Howard said if the commission fails to take the action to place the question on the ballot, he would begin a petition drive to do so.

Howard labeled fluoride a poison and contended that the majority of people don't need it. Joining Howard in the opposition was Mrs. Martha Johnson, executive secretary of the Michigan Pure Water Council of Lansing. She told the commission that the water system should serve all the people in the city since it was a public utility and that people should not be forced to use fluoride.

Mrs. Johnson indicated use of the fluoride could result in illness to some. She also endorsed a public vote on the issue.

Watervliet Mayor Robert Flaherty told the group he would check with the city attorney to learn if a proposal can still be included in the city's Nov. 4 election.

City Clerk Fred Johnson told the delegation that it was not the city's intent to add fluoridation, but rather the Michigan Public Health department, which insisted fluoride be included in the water improvement project before issuance of needed health permits for the project.

In other areas during the 3 1/2-hour meeting, the commission approved submitting an application for a grant request to the Environmental Protection agency for funding for a sewer and water infiltration study of city lines.

Richard Pumphrey, 335 Paw Paw avenue, complained to the commission about surface storm water on his property as a result of the city's installation of new blacktopping along the road. The complaint was referred to the street committee for study.

Action on a resolution to form a joint Watervliet city-township ambulance board was tabled after Commissioners Thomas Murphy and Al Steffens opposed a 10-year agreement clause in the document.

Murphy said, "The people should vote on this type of agreement before we act on it. The city will be spending revenue from about 2 1/2 mills a year for this ambulance service, or around $25,000, and the people should vote on establishing a special tax assessment district for such an expense."

Murphy and Steffens pointed out that Watervliet township residents voted to pay for their share of the ambulance service earlier this year and the residents of the city should also have a right to vote on the issue too.

The commission approved a six-month option of 12 lots in the Lewis subdivision, owned by the city, to Downey Real Estate of Benton Harbor for $1.

The commission voted to hold a special meeting Thursday, Oct. 16 at 8 p.m., to certify petitions for the city's Nov. 4 election and appointment of an election board for the November vote.

New Owner Seals Door On Doore

DETROIT (AP) — Joshua Doore Inc. will not reopen, according to Harold Victor, who took over the bankrupt furniture chain in June.

Victor declined to say why he is not going to reopen the three stores, in suburban Detroit. He has sold the inventory he acquired when he bought the company's assets in bankruptcy proceedings three months ago.

"We had every intention of reopening," Victor said, adding, "Prudence has led us not to reopen."

Victor paid about $1.1 million for the chain's assets, worth an estimated $2 million in furniture inventory.

Victor said he has fired the remaining Doore employees and cancelled orders the company placed with furniture makers.

The company was stunned in 1974 by the death of its chairman, Harvey Leuch, who was found dead in the trunk of his car in what police called a gangland-style slaying.

Five Die Mistakenly In Terrorist Attack

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Terrorists attacked a Barcelona police headquarters early today, sparking a gunbattle in which police fire killed three innocent civilians in a passing car and two of their own officers, police said.

Two other persons, including one policeman, were seriously wounded in Spain's bloodiest day of violence this year.

The attack raised the death toll to eight policemen and four civilians in seven days of political violence since Spain was plunged into crisis at home and abroad by the executions of five young terrorists Sept. 27.

Since the beginning of the year 19 policemen have been killed as a result of political violence in Spain, including those who died today.

Police said the latest attack, in the working class district of La Verneda came at 1 a.m. — 8 p.m. EDT Tuesday — as a group of gunmen drove past the barracks firing with sub-machine guns.

Police guards, untouched by the bullets, returned fire and in error riddled a second car, killing a couple and their 22-year-old son and seriously wounding a fourth person in their car.

Continuing to fire, police then hit three of their colleagues returning from a night call. Two died instantly, and a third was seriously wounded, police said.

Barcelona is a stronghold of the urban guerrilla organization FRAP — the Patriotic Revolutionary Anti-Fascist Front — which lost three militants to firing squads Sept. 27. The three had been convicted of killing policemen.

Four days after the executions, FRAP commandos were blamed for killing three policemen in Madrid, bloodying celebrations marking the 39th anniversary of Gen. Francisco Franco's rise to power in Spain.

Two Basque separatists also convicted of killing policemen were executed in addition to the three FRAP militants Sept. 27.

On Sunday, terrorists in the northern Basque country killed three civil guardsmen by blowing up their jeep in apparent retaliation for the executions of the five terrorists. Hours later, gunmen killed the owner of a Basque bar in reprisal.

On Monday, Franco's son-in-law, Dr. Cristobal Martinez-Bordiu, 52, was punched in the nose by Dutch tourists angry over the executions. He was hospitalized with facial injuries.

Rightists, meanwhile, continued a drive to whip up support for Franco and his crack-down on terrorism, calling a mass rally tonight in Valencia, 200 miles south of Barcelona.

The rally was the latest in a series of organized demonstrations opponents of the regime charge are polarizing opinion in Spain and risking street clashes.

A group of demonstrators enraged by foreign criticism of Spain's terrorist executions marched on Madrid's Hotel Sweden late Tuesday night, shouting abuse against Swedish Premier Olof Palme, one of Spain's most outspoken critics. The demonstrators smashed windows and threw bottles, but caused no injuries.

Lawton Council Buys Water Pipe

LAWTON — The Lawton village council last night approved the purchase of 2,200 feet of six-inch water pipe to be used as replacement for existing pipe on Adams street between Third and Fourth street.

The new pipe, which was estimated to cost $8,000 to $9,000, will be paid for from the water and sewer department fund.

The present water line on Adams street is too small and results in low water pressure in the area, councilmen said, triggering the replacement plan.

In other areas, the council voted approval to resurface the tennis courts in Chancy Lewis park.

The courts are used in the winter for ice skating and their present condition would prevent this because the surface is rough and cracked.

The repaving will cost $5,000 and will be funded from federal revenue sharing funds.

It was noted that the Lions club is planning to build a new shelter house in the park next spring.

The council approved a project to resurface Marks road. Cost of the project was not specified, but funds will come from the local street fund.

The council approved a request from the police department to add six additional men for Halloween which will be observed in Lawton on Thursday, Oct. 30. The council set a curfew for trick-or-treating at 8:30 p.m.

Dates for the pick-up of leaves were set by the council for every Monday and Friday from Oct. 13 to Nov. 7. Plastic bags may be obtained at the department of public works building, councilmen said.

Village President James (Hal) Moon appointed Councilman Earl Unruh to check into whether insurance on the water tower should be increased.

Moon also asked the council to begin thinking about a replacement for Councilman William Kimble who is planning to move to Paw Paw.

Moon said Councilman Marshall Sanderson will head the local bicentennial committee.

Judge Rejects Swainson Requests For Information

DETROIT (AP) — A visiting federal judge turned down a series of defense requests Tuesday for information in the scheduled Oct. 20 bribery-conspiracy trial of state Supreme Court Justice John B. Swainson.

U.S. District Court Judge Carl B. Rubin of Dayton, Ohio, rejected one of the defense requests for material as a "fishing expedition."

There were indications the trial of one of the two men accused with Swainson might be postponed because his attorney is trying a lengthy drug case involving Detroit police officers.

The defendant, Detroit ball bondsman Charles B. Goldfarb, may be tried separately because attorney Norman L. Lippitt may be tied up for some time with the 10th Precinct conspiracy case.

Swainson, Goldfarb and former Detroit ball bondsman Harvey Wish face charges including mail fraud, perjury and conspiracy.

A federal grand jury alleged the trio took part in a plot in which convicted burglar John J. Whalen paid a $40,000 bribe to Swainson for getting the state Supreme Court to order a new trial in Whalen's 1972 conviction for robbery of an Adrian jewelry store.

Whalen, who got the new trial, will be a key witness for the prosecution. Documents filed by government attorneys indicate he was offered no immunity or leniency for his testimony.

Judge Rubin turned down defense requests for information about prospective government witnesses.

He said that for him to so order the Justice Department's Organized Crime Strike Force, which is prosecuting the case, would have been "little more than a license to rummage through government files."

Rubin also rejected defense requests to dismiss some counts against Goldfarb. The court said that until the government presents its case, it will not be known if there was sufficient evidence against Goldfarb to warrant the charges.

Earlier, Judge Rubin ruled the defendants would have to limit to 10 the number of character witnesses they planned to introduce. Goldfarb had listed 38 such witnesses while Swainson had 35.

Giachalone Trial Underway

DETROIT (AP) — With the selection of a jury, the government is ready to proceed in its tax evasion prosecution of reputed Mafia leader Anthony Giachalone, a central figure in the probe of the disappearance of former Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa. Giachalone, 56, is accused of evading payment of $140,000 in federal income taxes between 1968 and 1971. The government says Giachalone reported income of $448,323 in the period covered by the indictments but should have admitted receiving $963,770. He faces a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each of the four counts. Some 300 witnesses will be called, say prosecutors, who expect the trial to last as long as three months.

More Students At Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — A 15 per cent boost in fall enrollment is being reported at Lake Superior State College. The school says total enrollment is 2,382, compared with 2,064 for the fall term a year ago. School officials said the increase in enrollment reflected the economic situation. They said job scarcity brings to school many students who might otherwise be working.

Clashes Leave 28 Dead

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentine security forces and leftist guerrillas clashed in widely scattered areas Tuesday, leaving 28 persons dead and Isabel Peron's future cloudier than ever. The casualties raised to about 800 the number of persons killed in Argentine political violence since Mrs. Peron assumed the presidency on the death of her husband 16 months ago. Citing nervous strain and intestinal disorders, she turned over her presidential powers to Italo Luder, president of the senate, on Sept. 13 and began a month-long vacation in Cordoba province.

Martha Has Bone Disease

WASHINGTON (AP) — A doctor treating Martha Mitchell says she is hospitalized for a serious bone marrow disease, but that "I anticipate the immediate future favorable." Dr. Thomas E. O'Brien said Tuesday night that the estranged wife of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell has "a type of malignancy" that "is not a cancer in the strict sense of the word." O'Brien declined to name the ailment, but he said, "If you asked me whether it was multiple myeloma, I wouldn't deny it." There was at least one published report that Mrs. Mitchell is suffering from myeloma, which has been described as a rare form of bone cancer.

Near-Record Bonding Okayed

UTICA, Mich. (AP) — A bond issue worth $28 million, reported to be the third largest ever to pass in Michigan, was approved Tuesday by voters in the Utica Community School District. Also approved was a 2 1/2-mill tax increase. The money will be used to build two new junior high schools and two new elementary schools, and to remodel 36 other schools. Supt. Don Bemis said the state's second largest bond issue, worth $29.5 million in 1969, also was passed by voters in the Utica district.

Loren's Gift Helps Church

LLANO, Tex. (AP) — Actress Sophia Loren's "friendship with a poor parish priest in the heart of Texas" may provide a new church for 40 Roman Catholic families in this Hill Country community west of Austin, says the Rev. Anthony Goossens. "She has charity and compassion for poor people," Father Goossens said of the film star with whom he has corresponded for 10 years. Miss Loren sent Father Goossens a set of five ruby rings to be auctioned off for money to rebuild the Holy Trinity mission church in his parish, which covers 3,000 sparsely populated square miles.

Portuguese Troops On Alert

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — All military units in northern Portugal were on strict alert and confined to barracks today following the mutiny of a heavily armed artillery regiment in Oporto, the country's second largest city 175 miles north of the capital. The 800 mutineers of the Serra do Pilar regiment ran a red banner up a flagpole Tuesday and demanded dismissal of the region's new military commander, Gen. Antonio Pires Veloso.

Campaign Law To Bring A Paper Blizzard

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's new political reform law will require tremendous administrative paperwork — not just a promise by candidates to be good. And even the administrative chores are up in the air while the legislature toys with the question of when the law finally will take effect.

The new measure regulates campaign financing, forces lobbyist registration and disclosure, requires statements of financial interest by public officials, sets up a commission to oversee it and provides for partial public funding of gubernatorial campaigns.

As now written, the law takes effect April 1, but rules to implement it won't be ready at that time. The six-member Ethics Commission that must issue the rules can't be named until then. The commission also must approve the type of reporting forms that will be required. And state Elections Director Bernard Apol says he's not certain when the new rules will take effect.

"Can they in fact go into effect April 1?" he mused. "I just can't answer these questions. There's no way to draft up final forms, because I don't know what rules they're going to come up with," he said.

But Apol is getting ready by drafting some forms for consideration by the commission, when it finally is named. He hopes his rules will be close to what the commission may want. As for the law as a whole, he says there are problems, but they can be overcome.

"I look at it from the point of view of whether you can administer it," he said. "At this point, I can't say, 'Hey, that's a non-administerable bill.'"

But he said about 20 new people will be needed to oversee the law, not only in his office but in the attorney general's office and the commission itself. "The whole structure of just how that whole thing is going to fit into an administrative pattern hasn't been decided yet," he said.

The law will result in filing headaches. Apol said some 25,000 public officials, ranging from township trustees to governor, will be forced to file statements about their financial interests. Some 9,000 will be filed with his office, Apol said, while the rest will go to local and county offices.

But at election time, those numbers will swell, since both officeholders and candidates challenging them will have to file statements. "So if there are four candidates for each office, we could have 40,000 more reports," Apol said.

Apol said the whole matter may force him to move again to get more space. He recently moved from the Treasury Building to a small office nearby.

"They already moved us into a bigger one, but I suspect it isn't going to work," he said. "As time goes by, I believe we'll put reports on microfilm." Making Apol's job even harder, the legislature is expected to consider changes to the new law before it ever goes into effect.

Technical mistakes need correcting, and Republicans want to take out a provision which they say gives Democrats an edge by permitting labor unions to funnel cash among their local subunits. However, one thing the legislature might do would help Apol. If a bipartisan agreement can be reached on the controversial changes, it may give the bill immediate effect.

That would put parts of the law — such as the naming of the commission — in effect Jan. 1, giving Apol four months to gear up to administer the act before it fully takes effect in April.

He Cycles 5,000 Miles To Andrews

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Greg Martin, Andrews university freshman, traveled 5,000 miles on a motorcycle recently to enroll at AU this fall, according to AU officials.

The 20-year-old, 6-foot-4, student from Fairbanks, Alaska, could have made the trip by plane and shipped his motorcycle, but instead he chose the hard way.

Norton said the trip cost him around $500, including a $125 repair bill to his motorcycle. In recent months, Martin held two jobs to pay for the motorcycle and his trip to AU.

Long before the Washington state border, near the town of Haines (northern Alaska panhandle) the bike's frame broke. Martin was fortunate enough to be picked up, bike and all, by a passing couple in a pickup truck.

"They took me into town and hunted up someone who would weld the frame," Martin said. They found the town's only fireman, who also happened to be a professional aircraft welder. His welding job on Martin's motorcycle held the rest of the way. "When my chain broke (in some desert on the Oregon-Idaho border) I happened to be next to a gas station. There wasn't another for 30 miles in either direction," he said. "The same happened whenever I ran out of gas, there'd be a gas station right there."

The weather was fine for the first day of the trip, a sunny 65 degrees from Fairbanks to Valdez, in southern Alaska. Then the sun began to fade. Four days of rain made a muddy nightmare out of much of the twisting Alaska highway in the Canadian Yukon territory, and Martin decided to wait it out somewhere near Destruction Bay before proceeding.

Martin has signed up for an art major at AU.

Financial Condition Is Sound

DOWAGIAC — Southwestern Michigan college board last night accepted its annual audit report which showed the college remains in sound financial shape.

Auditor H. Dale Bussler of Niles told the board the financial books had been kept in such good shape he had no recommendations for any changes in SMC business procedures. Among statistics cited by Bussler for fiscal year 1974-75, total general fund revenues were $2,019,714, up $325,000 from the preceding year. General fund expenditures amounted to $1,950,782, an increase of $315,000 over last year. He said the college's building and site fund assets now total $663,721.

Bussler said SMC's total capital assets increased by $153,000 during the year and, in addition, payments totaling $90,000 on debt principal and interest raised the capital fund equity by $235,000.

Bussler had special praise for the SMC business office for its investment of cash funds. He said the investments resulted in a net interest gain of $33,625.

In other areas, the board approved the title of associate dean for health education for Mrs. Eileen Parks. Mrs. Parks has developed the SMC licensed practical nurse and registered nurse programs at SMC. She had been an assistant dean. Her new salary is $22,500, a $200 increase.

The board approved paying the full contribution to the Michigan Public Schools Retirement fund for part-time faculty, the same as is done for full-time faculty.

The board reduced the age requirement for free senior citizen tuition from 62 to 60 years of age and accepted the SMC Student Nurses association as an official campus organization.

The board accepted a $14,262 federal Bureau of Health Manpower grant for SMC's nursing grant and loan program, plus gifts totaling $2,739 from area industry and citizens.

HE'S NO. 7
WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma says he is the seventh Democratic presidential hopeful to qualify for federal matching funds in his campaign.

VEEP, MAYBE: Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, right, said he might accept a Republican vice-presidential nomination. But I would not seek that nomination." (AP Wirephoto)

Radio WHFB Adds Reagan Commentary

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan is now being heard daily in this area on his own five-minute program broadcast by radio station WHFB.

Reagan's "Viewpoint" is carried by WHFB Monday through Friday at 3:40 p.m., following the 3:30 news and preceding the afternoon sportscast.

During the five-minute program, Reagan discusses various aspects of the current American scene, including government, industry, the economy and cultural and social institutions.

In his first program this Monday Reagan attacked the growth of the federal bureaucracy, noting that in the last 20 years Congress has increased its staff by 165 percent and its budget by 681 percent. He also pointed out the number of bills enacted in 1973 was exactly the same as it was 10 years earlier, when Congress had one-third the staff and budget.

In Tuesday's program he proposed a constitutional amendment that would prohibit further deficit spending and limit — except in time of national emergency — the percentage of the nation's personal income that could be taken as revenue by the government.

Again, he points out that government costs over the past 20 years have grown at a rate 1½ times that of the national economy.

Reagan's "Viewpoint" can be heard at 1060 on the standard AM radio dial. It is sponsored locally by Gast Manufacturing company.

Bangor To Decide Fund Drive's Fate

BANGOR — Bangor United Charities will hold a public meeting on Oct. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in Bangor city hall to decide whether the organization should begin a fund drive this fall or be discontinued, according to Charles Seymore, chairman of the organization's board of directors.

Seymore said the organization has had difficulty developing community interest and participation in the annual fund drive which aids 11 local agencies.

"The people who have been spearheading this activity for many years feel that more participation by interested citizens is essential if we're going to make a drive this year and continue it in the future," said Seymore.

The public meeting is being called to determine the extent of public interest in the fund drive.

If a decision is made by the board of directors to continue with the fund drive, new officers and three directors will be elected and a drive chairman will be appointed, said Seymore.

In 1974, the drive collected $6,026, which was about $1,000 less than was collected in 1973. The drive has collected over $100,000 since it was started in 1958.

The funds are distributed to the Michigan United Way, Red Cross, Van Buren association for retarded children, Campfire Girls, Salvation Army, Recreation council, Bangor Christmas basket program, Children's aid, Bloodmobile, Van Buren mental health service board, and the Boy Scouts.

Berrien Near Blood Goal For Quarter

The Berrien County Red Cross announced bloodmobile collections for the first quarter of the current fiscal year amounted to 25 per cent of the annual goal.

Red Cross reported donations of 1,387 pints of blood in July, August and September.

Although the quarterly total was slightly short of the rate needed to hit 100 per cent or 6,000 pints for the year, prospects are looking up, according to Jack Stafford, chairman of the blood program.

"We are finally reaching more people and getting more community support," said Stafford. "More organizations are volunteering to sponsor collection dates."

The Berrien Red Cross is on probation in the regional blood donation program because Berrien failed to meet its quota of 6,000 pints each of the last two years.

Four bloodmobile collection dates have been announced for October. They are:

Monday, Oct. 13 — Auto Specialties Manufacturing Co., St. Joseph, 1 to 7 p.m.

Tuesday, Oct. 14 — Niles, St. John's United Church of Christ, noon to 6 p.m.

Thursday, Oct. 30 — Benton Harbor, Methodist Peace Temple, noon to 6 p.m.

Friday, Oct. 31 — Bridgman, place not set yet.

Five people have joined the ranks of one-gallon donors — Dorothy Siczak, Lakeside; Barbara Fender, New Buffalo; Robert Zientarski, Sawyer; Daniel Shelles, Buchanan, and Abel Rakowski, Buchanan.

The Red Cross blood program supplies the blood needs of Berrien residents at no cost for the blood itself.

Performers Invited To Join Giant Bicentennial Pageant

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Preliminary plans for the most ambitious stage production in Berrien county history, will be unveiled at a meeting at the Berrien county Youth fair grounds, here, Monday night.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Youth Memorial building, the meeting is open to the general public and to civic and governmental groups from throughout the county.

It is the first step toward a planned bicentennial pageant that could cost up to $40,000 and have a cast — production and stage workers and pre-pageant entertainers included — that will number between 500 and 700 people, according to Paul McAdams, president of Berrien County Bicentennial Pageant, Inc.

The pageant group is a non-profit arm of the Berrien County Bicentennial commission.

McAdams said yesterday that more than 370 invitations were sent out to various organizations throughout the county.

"This pageant will portray the county's history over the last 200 years and we need participation from every area in the county," McAdams said.

He added that a representative from the Rogers Company, professional producers of shows and pageants, will be at the Monday night meeting.

The firm has been hired to put on the four-day show that is scheduled to begin July 21, 1976.

Dr. A. S. Mowery, executive director of the county bicentennial commission, said the meeting is the first to involve the general public.

He appealed to those interested in any part of the pageant's production to come to the meeting.

Actors, singers, artists, carpenters, electricians, traffic controllers and many others will be needed. He said age is of no difference.

"Anyone between cradle and grave can help us," he said.

Mowery said local histories have been written by liaison people at school and township levels and are being collected and edited now for incorporation into the pageant's script.

Mowery, who is director of the Michigan State University center at 777 Riverview drive, Benton Harbor, said the pageant will "probably be the biggest stage production in this county's history."

Allegan Schools Chief Retires

ALLEGAN — Robert Peckham, superintendent of Allegan schools since 1970 and a teacher and administrator with the system since 1940, has announced his retirement effective July 1, 1976, school board President Richard Perrigo said yesterday. Peckham's retirement was made public in a letter of resignation submitted to the board, Perrigo said. He said the board will take formal action on the resignation at its Nov. 6 meeting. Peckham, now 57, joined the Allegan school district as a teacher in 1940; became assistant high school principal in 1955; junior high principal in 1958; the system's first fulltime assistant superintendent in 1963; and superintendent in 1970. He graduated in 1936 from Kalamazoo Central high school and in 1940 from Western Michigan university. Perrigo said the board will have until July 1, 1976, to pick a successor to fill Peckham's $30,000-a-year post. The Allegan school district has 3,079 students.

Boston, Cincinnati Sweep Into World Series

Yaz Helps Ruin A's Dream

OAKLAND (AP) — Boston's Red Sox, inspired by the play of 34-year-old Carl Yastrzemski, fly the American League pennant today after destroying the Oakland dream of four straight titles.

"It's a very strange feeling," admitted the A's volatile owner Charles O. Finley. "But you can't win them all."

Boston, with a 5-3 victory Tuesday night, swept the best-of-five playoffs in three straight and now return home to open the World Series Saturday against the National League's Cincinnati Reds.

"We've won during the season on defense, and that defense won't for us in this series," declared Yastrzemski, whose fielding gem in the eighth inning was the turning point of the final game.

Yaz made a diving stop of a drive by Reggie Jackson and kept him to a single instead of a double or a triple. One run did score on the play but Sal Bando was stopped at third and the next batter, Joe Rudi, hit into an inning-ending double play.

Sharing the credit was relief pitcher Dick Drago, who threw a fast sinker that Rudi hit on the ground.

In the three games, Boston out-hit the A's 31-19 and five of the Oakland starters, Campy Campaneris, Billy North, Billy Williams, Gene Tenace and Phil Garner, didn't get a hit all series.

"They just outplayed us," admitted losing Manager Alvin Dark who piloted the A's to the World Series crown in 1974 after Dick Williams left the helm after winning in 1972 and 1973.

Southpaw pitcher Ken Holtzman tried to go on two days rest after his own defense let him down in the first game that was lost by a 7-1 count.

"It just wasn't there," he said. "I was stiff."

Boston scored an unearned run in the fourth inning to break the scoreless duel between Holtzman and winning pitcher Rick Wise.

The Red Sox added three more in the fifth on hits by Rick Burleson, Denny Doyle, Yastrzemski and Carlton Fisk plus a wild pitch. Cecil Cooper drove in the finale in the eighth.

Cesar Tovar walked as a pinch hitter in the sixth for Oakland and eventually scored on a ground out after Claudell Washington singled him to third. Two more runs scored in the eighth before Yaz and reliever Drago chopped off the rally.

For the series Yaz collected five hits, including a home run. During the season he had played primarily at first base, returning to his old familiar left field when Jim Rice was hurt.

No one was saying much about the coming series against Cincinnati, but Manager Darrell Johnson admitted he probably would start ace righthander Luis Tiant in Saturday's opening game at Fenway Park.

Also, shortstop Burleson said the fact that the opening two games of the just-concluded playoffs were at Fenway had been a big aid.

"I hope it will be the same in the World Series," Burleson said of the venerable stadium with its short left field wall.

"If we can hit some balls off the wall, I'm sure it will give George Foster some trouble," commented the Red Sox infielder. "When we won those first two games against the A's at home, we knew it would be just a matter of time before we won the series. But I was surprised we won it in three straight."

Pirates Believe Redlegs Best

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds were here with the National League title, a yearning for their first World Series victory since 1940, and a mighty compliment from Al Oliver of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"They'll go all the way. They definitely have the best team I've seen since I've been in major league baseball," said Oliver, whose eighth season ended Tuesday night when the Reds beat Pittsburgh 5-3 in 10 innings in the National League playoffs.

The Reds swept the series in three games even though Pirate rookie John Candelaria pitched superbly Tuesday night, matching a playoff record with 14 strikeouts.

"This is the happiest day of my life," said Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson, whose club opens the World Series Saturday in Boston against the American League-winning Red Sox.

The Reds dealt Pittsburgh its final defeat about a half hour after the Red Sox swept Oakland in the AL playoff.

"I'm ready to play in Fenway Park," said Cincinnati's Pete Rose, who provided the key spark in the title-clincher.

It was Rose who belted a two-run homer that helped chase Candelaria in the eighth and gave Cincinnati a 3-2 lead. Then after the Pirates pulled to a 3-3 tie with a run in their frantic ninth, Rose helped the Reds deliver their two-run knockout punch in the 10th.

For a while, it looked like the 21-year-old Candelaria would give the Pirates the reprieve they needed after two consecutive losses in Cincinnati. He started with a flourish, striking out the first four batters he faced.

Al Oliver belted a two-run homer for the Pirates in the sixth to give Pittsburgh a 2-1 lead off Cincinnati starter Gary Nolan.

Candelaria's undoing began in the eighth — after he struck out Ken Griffey and Cesar Geronimo to raise his total to 14. That matched the previous playoff record set by Joe Coleman of Detroit against Oakland in 1972.

But Candelaria then walked pinch-hitter Merv Rettenmund on four pitches, and Rose followed with his two-run homer that landed near the leftfield seats.

The Pirates loaded the bases in their ninth on singles by Willie Stargell and Richie Zisk and a walk to Bob Robertson.

Reliever Will McEnaney then yielded another walk to pinchhitter Duffy Dyer to force in the tying run, but Rennie Stennett flied out to center to end the inning.

The Reds put the game away with a 10th-inning push that began when Griffey beat out a two-strike bunt.

Griffey took second on a balk by Pirate reliever Ramon Hernandez, moved to third on an infield out and scored the winning run on a sacrifice fly by Ed Armbrister.

Big Ten Vote Cast Against Playoffs

NEW YORK (AP) — Three of the nation's major conferences have reaffirmed their opposition to a national college football playoff although such a proposal may come up for a vote for the first time at the National Collegiate Athletic Association's January convention.

The College Football Championship Feasibility Committee, headed by Temple University athletic director Ernest C. Casale, recommended a four-team, post-bowl playoff to the policy-making NCAA Council last weekend.

The Associated Press learned the vote was 8-4 — five members of the 17-man committee were absent — and three of the negative votes were cast by representatives of the Big Ten, Pacific-8 and Southeastern Conferences.

They were faculty representative Marcus L. Plant of Michigan, a member of the Big Ten; athletic director J.D. Morgan of UCLA, which belongs to the Pac-8; and Boyd McWhorter, commissioner of the Southeastern Conference.

The fourth negative vote came from Alan Chapman of Rice University, a member of the Southwest Conference.

The committee fight for a national championship playoff was led by Nebraska athletic director Don Devaney, who was represented by sports information director Don Bryant, and the Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, executive vice president of Notre Dame. Other affirmative votes, the AP learned, were cast by Casale and representatives of Utah, Dartmouth, North Carolina, Toledo and Atlantic Coast Conference.

Absent committee members were Coaches Darrell Royal of Texas and John McKay of Southern California, athletic directors Elroy Hirsch of Wisconsin and Carl Maddox of Louisiana State and faculty representative William H. Baughn of Colorado.

The playoff opposition from the Big Ten, Pac-8 and SEC stems from a desire to maintain the present bowl structure.

The Big Ten and Pac-8 champions meet in the lucrative Rose Bowl while the SEC usually sends at least half of its 10 teams to post-season games.

"While the Big Ten has never adopted an official position, the conference has traditionally been opposed to a national championship playoff because of a long and successful affiliation with the Rose Bowl," said Commissioner Wayne Duke. "We feel a post-season playoff would be a detriment to the present bowl picture."

The championship committee recommended that four teams be chosen by a special panel, with two games to be played a week or so after the bowls and the championship game a week later.

An NCAA spokesman said he felt the proposal would become a formal piece of legislation at the January convention in St. Louis. If approved, it would take effect for the 1976 season.

Following Bo, Denny Protests ABC Alters Starting Time

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — ABC television relaxed its share of the hold over big time sports Tuesday to guarantee Michigan and Michigan State won't finish Saturday's college football game holding flashlights.

Faced with protests from coaches of both teams, ABC-TV agreed to alter the starting time of the televised football clash in East Lansing to 3:10 p.m. No one will be getting a suntan in the fourth quarter, but players shouldn't be dropping passes because they can't see them.

The controversy arose when ABC and its sponsors attempted to avoid conflict with the World Series, also televised Saturday, by placing two possible starting times on the football game.

The World Series, of course, isn't even televised by ABC. It's just that the network didn't want to go head-to-head with NBC and baseball.

Had Oakland won the playoffs, the football game was to start around noon EDT, followed by baseball. A Boston victory originally would have set the college game's starting time at almost 4 p.m., but that was set back Tuesday to just after 3 o'clock, meaning the grid-clash likely will be over by 6 p.m.

Boston-Cincinnati game starts just after noon on NBC, with viewers able to switch over to ABC to see UM and MSU football later.

The two starting times came up because ABC didn't want to go head-to-head with NBC, matching its football against NBC's baseball.

This bit of dodge 'em raised howls of protest from football fans, not the least of whom were the head coaches of Michigan and Michigan State.

After hearing both coaches' complaints, Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke phoned ABC-TV vice president Chuck Howard and the new starting time was agreed upon.

Both coaches expressed concern that the game might be played under cloudy skies, hastening dusk even more.

"A game on television usually runs longer than other games," MSU Coach Denny Stolz said.

"If we were to run into rain or clouds, then we would finish in total darkness."

The reason the Big Ten lets itself get pushed around like that is, of course, money. According to Fred Stabley, MSU sports information director, televising the UM-MSU clash is worth nearly half a million dollars to the conference.

In fact, the Michigan-MSU arrangement came about only because another, even more drastic shuffle fell through. ABC wanted to televise the Spartans' opener with Ohio State — but only if the two teams agreed to move the game up one week.

While the two schools nixed that idea, Stabley said, they did swallow ABC's dictates on the UM-MSU game.

"It was set up after the Ohio State event went down the drain," Stabley said. "We both went for it — it's a big game."

Dine Leads SJ Runners

PORTAGE — St. Joseph took the first three places while posting an easy 18-38 Big Seven cross country win over Portage Northern here Tuesday.

Tim Dine paced the Bears with a winning time of 15:35. Joe Palazzolo and Jeff Callender were second and third, respectively, as the Bears remained second in the league with a 3-1 record.

Northern's Rick Niedzielski was fourth in 16:10, while the other St. Joe scorers were Steve Hudson (fifth) and Henry Follman (seventh).

St. Joseph also won the junior varsity meet 17-44, with Steve Kinney finishing first.

Career Clips

Freshman quarterback Bob North, former River Valley standout, threw a one-yard pass and scored himself on a two-yard plunge in Michigan Tech's 38-3 whipping of Bemidji State last Saturday. For the day North hit on four of eight passes for 36 yards and carried the ball eight times for 51 yards.

According to Bridgman's Tim Ruff, Michigan State's No. 2 tight end on offense, the Spartans were fired up last week against the Irish because the public overhauled MSU in the weekly ratings.

"I couldn't believe it, they didn't rank us at all. And we beat two pretty good teams. We went out there thinking we had something to prove to Notre Dame."

Ruff, who played about half of the Ohio State and Michigan games, injured his left knee (hyperextended) against North Carolina State and missed two days of practice last week.

"It (the knee) feels pretty good now. The coaches figured Spencer (Ray, starting MSU guard) was doing such a good job against Notre Dame they just left him in there. Spencer really did the job. But I played on all the specialty teams."

Two Home Runs Spoil 14-Strikeout Effort

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Even winning Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson felt sorry for John Candelaris, the pressure-proof rookie left-hander of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"It was quite a performance by the young kid," said an admiring Anderson after his Reds beat the Pirates 5-3 Tuesday night and captured the National League pennant.

"It was a shame he didn't win," said Anderson — and if you know the white-haired manager, you know he wasn't just blowing smoke at a loser.

Candelaris, a 21-year-old who four months ago was toiling for Charleston in the International League, struck out 14 Reds Tuesday night in 7 2/3 innings of pitching with his team's back to the wall.

The Pirates had lost the first two games of the National League best-of-five game championship series. It was win or else Tuesday night. It turned out to be or else, the end of the season, but you couldn't blame Candelaris.

The 6-foot-7 Candelaris, a Brooklyn-born son of Puerto Rican parents, tied a major league record of 14 strikeouts in a playoff game. Joe Coleman of the Detroit Tigers fanned 14 against Oakland in 1972. Candelaris broke the National League playoff strikeout mark of 13 by Tom Seaver of the New York Mets against the Reds in 1973.

Anderson said he was worried in the early innings even though the Reds led into the sixth 1-0 on Dave Concepcion's second inning home run.

"I didn't know if we could win the way Candelaris was pitching," Anderson said. "I told Shep (pitching coach Larry Shepard) this was the best pitching performance against us this season."

Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh just shook his head, rocked in his rocking chair, and observed, "you can't go much better."

"Candy pitched a helluva game," Murtaugh noted of the pitcher he personally scouted in Brooklyn.

Candelaris sat after the game just as cool and relaxed as he was on the mound. He sipped from a can of beer, patiently answered questions from reporters who mobbed his locker space.

"Strikeouts don't mean anything," he repeated for the reporters who came in little late. "I could have struck out 20, but it wouldn't have meant a thing if we lost."

Candelaris seemed more composed than his questioners, who sympathized with the heart-breaking performance.

"It's not the end of the world," he said. "I gave 100 percent and I'm still happy to be alive," said the 6-foot-7 Candelaris. He appeared to be consoling the writers.

What happened on the eighth inning, two-run homer by Pete Rose, the shot that broke the left-hander's back? It was only the second hit off the Pirates' starter.

"Didn't you see it?" Candelaris asked. "He belted the thing clear over the fence. He still managed a smile as he said it.

Wolff's Return Buys St. Joseph Hopes

St. Joseph followers hope the return of fullback Scott Wolff will cure a lethargic Bears' offense. Friday night against Niles.

With Wolff on the sidelines with an injured ankle the past two games, St. Joseph, has rushed for just 42 yards (less than one yard per carry) and scored only two touchdowns while extending its losing string to three straight.

Wolff, a 181-pound senior who averaged 5.0 yards per carry before his practice injury, was still limping in practice this week and listed as "doubtful" as a Friday night starter, but Bear coach Mike Mullenkamp expects Wolff to play in the Big Seven encounter which is the Vikings' homecoming game.

"Just having him back should help psychologically," declares Mullenkamp. "Also, he will give us more speed in the backfield than what we have had." The other St. Joe running back is tailback Jay Garavino, who is averaging 4.0 per carry. Quarterback Dave Ziebart should also face fewer blitzing linebackers while passing if the St. Joe running game becomes established. But Mullenkamp still wants his senior thrower to "get rid of the ball quicker and the receivers sooner."

St. Joe went to the "shotgun" set last week against Norrix, but Mullenkamp doesn't plan to use it against Niles if his running game works. "Even though Portage Northern used it while beating the Vikings."

Niles coach Neil McLaughlin concedes a passing edge to the Bears while noting his team must avoid a situation of "playing catch up football." The leading Bear receivers are split end Ted Dongillo (13 receptions for 226 yards) and tight end John Donahue — last Friday's Bear offensive player of the week (five catches for 75 yards).

Niles hasn't exactly been a ball of fire on offense while losing its last two and scoring just two touchdowns. The Vikings, 2-2 overall, are led by tailbacks Tim Donley, a 148-pound junior, and Kevin Thomas, a 177-pound junior. They have rushing marks of 3.2 and 3.3, respectively.

"We've been forced to play catch up football the last two weeks," says McLaughlin on the Viking offensive problems. "And we are rather inexperienced offensively. Our entire backfield unit is inexperienced."

Both coaches expect a low scoring game (the winner has scored more than 20 points just once in the past five years). Niles does have an experienced front line defense in ends Bruce Lietzke and Tim Tyler, tackles Mark Schlut and Greg Light and middle guard Duff Plummer.

End Mark Laukus was the St. Joe defensive player of the week in last Friday's 14-7 loss to Loy Norrix for a "good job of containment on his side." Mullenkamp also says that tackle Jeff Schmal "played another great game" and end Jeff Johnson did a "nice job." Monster man Jimmy Bargett and free safety Brian Lannon also had good efforts.

Mullenkamp also plans to play more because "when we get tired and our feet don't move too well when we tackle." Kurt Felner will be at defensive halfback, Barry Coburn at strong safety and Bruce Ward and Mike Williamson will help out in the defensive line.

St. Joe's defensive task should also be easier Friday because for the first time since the Lakeshore opener, the Bears won't be facing a bigger team.

Niles has also been having problems against larger players. "People have just been pounding the hell out of us," declares McLaughlin.

Friday's game will be the fifth in the St. Joseph-Niles series which dates back to 1923. The Bears have won the last two years and hold an overall 34-22-2 edge.

Senior Second In Area Scoring

Bushee Sparking Fennville

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

As Rick Bushee goes, so go the Fennville Blackhawks.

At least that's the way it has been on the gridiron this season. Fennville is off to its best start since 1971, winning three of its first four games.

Bushee has played a major role in that success. In four games the senior tailback has scored 10 touchdowns and added a two-point conversion run for 62 points. The total is second among area players. Eau Claire's Don McAfee continues to lead with 70 points.

Bushee, a bulky 5-11, 185 pounds, has also rushed for 524 yards, fourth best in the area behind McAfee (735), Mickey Ashbrook of Lake Michigan Catholic (608), and Watervliet's Frank Gargano (547).

Fennville coach Gary Frens believes that Bushee boasts two assets which lead to his success.

"His size is one asset," Frens says. "He's basically a speed runner but he can run with power. It's a combination of the two that makes him effective."

Frens adds that Bushee's best quality as a runner is his ability to find the hole.

"He runs from the I formation at tailback," Frens says. "He finds the hole real well. I believe he has college football potential. Just where and how big I couldn't say."

Bushee started strong this season, scoring four touchdowns and rushing for 213 yards in the Blackhawks' season-opening win over Gobles.

Bushee's one poor game came in a 36-0 loss to powerful Hopkins when he rushed for just 39 yards.

In the last two games, both easy, Fennville wins, Bushee gained 108 and 164 yards, respectively, while totalling six touchdowns.

"Basically, the last couple of weeks Bushee has not had the super run," Frens says. "He's been picking up five or six yards a carry and that's what we're after. He's been getting his yards."

Opponents are now keying on Bushee to stop the Fennville rushing attack. But Frens has installed a play which helps to prevent this.

"When teams try to key on his running we slip in an option pass play," Frens says. "Bushee throws the ball off the sweep and he can throw the ball well."

Bloomington is one team which has already found this out. Bushee fired a perfect 40-yard touchdown pass to his Mark Moeller two weeks ago against the Cardinals.

Probably the two runs by Bushee which Frens remembers most this season came in the opener against Gobles. In the first, a 55-yard jaunt, Bushee went off tackle and broke three or four tackles in the secondary before finding daylight.

Later in the game, Bushee followed a block by fullback Calvin Leslie on a double dive play. Again he broke three or four tackles before racing 40 yards into the end zone.

Frens has called the blocking of the Fennville line one of the important ingredients in Bushee's running success. Four seniors and three juniors do the bulk of the blocking.

Andy Stennett, a senior, and sophomore George Thompson alternate opposite of Moeller at the other end slot. Moeller is a 6-3, 185-pounder, while Stennett stands 6-1, 180 and Thompson is still growing at 6-0, 160.

Jim Lacy (5-10, 175) and Matt Bathke (6-2, 250), both seniors, are the tackles while juniors Ron Ridgeway (5-10, 140) and Bill Bushee (6-0, 180), Rick's brother, are the guards. Junior Jerry Van Don Brink (5-11, 200) is the center.

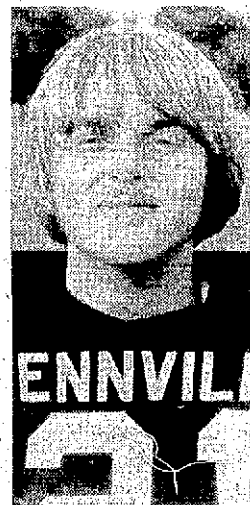

Fennville has four games left, possibly five if the Blackhawks can find a replacement for Covert. And Bushee will have to be at his best if Fennville is to continue its winning ways. The Blackhawks face, in order, Litchfield, Allendale, Montague and Hamilton.

Litchfield boasts a 3-1 record, while Allendale is 4-0. Montague's claim to fame is an 18-14 upset win over North Muskegon, ranked No. 2 in class C at the time of the loss two weeks ago.

"We're just going to try and take them one at a time and come out with a good year," Frens says.

And with Rick Bushee at tailback the Blackhawks may come out with just that.

Favored Comets, Lancers Wary Of Bud Foes Friday

Coloma and Lakeshore rate as favorites in their Blossomland games Friday night but both coaches are casting wary eyes at their opponents.

The Comets, who share the conference lead with Dowagiac at 3-0, travel to winless Edwardsburg (0-3) while the Lancers (1-2), fresh from a 41-3 explosion over Buchanan, host River Valley (1-2).

"We know that Edwardsburg always knows how to play football, they always have been a good hitting team," voiced Coloma coach Bob Irvin. "If you look at them historically the last few years they've beat some good teams even on off years. It would make their whole season to knock off somebody like us. We have to be prepared to play ball."

Lakeshore's Dave Topping echoes the same sentiments.

"If River Valley beats Lakeshore it would pretty much make their season. We've got to be mentally prepared. We've been successful in the past against them but this is a new season. We have to keep our minds on River Valley with all the Homecoming activities going on."

In other Blossomland games Friday night, Dowagiac looks to Brandywine (2-1) in a top-notch attraction and Buchanan (0-3) entertains Cassopolis (2-1).

The Eddie's are off to their worst start in modern history (since 1955) but the green squad has played against some rugged competition. The four losses have been to teams with a combined 12-4 record.

"We have a young ball club and we're making young mistakes," offered Edwardsburg coach Ted Peak, starting his sixth season at the school. "I think we've given up more points (116) already this year than in any entire year since I've been here."

"We know Coloma has a fine club, they have to be if they could beat Cass. We just can't stop Bertuca (John), we also have to stop Mattson (John), Gagliardo (Jorry) and Cooper (Ron). If we can stop their off tackle play maybe we can stay in the ball game with them."

Starting Edwardsburg fullback Jeff Armstrong is out with a knee injury. The main Eddie offensive guns should be quarterback Steve Barolla and halfbacks Tim Shaw and Greg Peak, the coach's son.

502 yards this fall.

The defense has been the real Cornol bulwark as the defenders have allowed 30 points (second best in the area) and only six points in the last three games (all wins).

"Looking at the films, Shannon Doolen, Sid Myrick and Bill Genovese...our three interior defensive linemen...all did great jobs against Cass," noted Irvin.

The Comets, who edged Edwardsburg 7-0 last year on their way to the Blossomland crown, have starting fullback and linebacker Dennis Ory (injured leg) doubtful for Friday's game. Gagliardo will get the start at fullback if Ory is still sidelined. Lakeshore finally got its offense rolling (410 yards net) in its win over Buchanan and Topping is hoping for more of the same Friday.

"The big thing now is to keep ourselves at the same level or try to improve more on offense. We gave a good effort, but we want another good effort too." The Lancers got bonus production from their alternating fullbacks last Friday as Brad Gardner and Odell Brister combined for 106 yards rushing and two touchdowns.

Topping also had special praise for quarterback Kevin Campbell, who ran the option for 70 yards and two touchdowns, and wing back Craig Shafer, who supplied crisp blocking.

Jim Porter and Shafer, both linebackers, continue to anchor the strong Lakeshore defense which has only yielded 38 points in four games.

Lakeshore, which whipped the Mustangs 27-8 last fall, has won four in a row from River Valley while outscoring the Mustangs 114-27.

River Valley, which lost to Dowagiac 35-8 last Friday, has a passing threat in the quarterback Jeff Schmidt, to end Dave North tandem. Greg Johnson is the Mustangs' leading runner.

The Mustangs, 2-2 overall with two straight defeats, are hoping to avoid a repeat of last year when Valley also took its first two games but then lost the rest.

Brandywine desperately needs a win over Dowagiac to stay in the Blossomland race as does Cass over winless Buchanan, off to its worst beginning since 1955. Cass tops the area in fewest points allowed (19) while Dowagiac is the leader in fewest yards given up (559).

WINNER AND LOSER: This was the scene in the dressing room in Oakland on Tuesday night with Reggie Jackson, right, of the Oakland A's looking rather solemn while Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox had a big smile after the Sox beat the A's, 5-3, to win their way into the World Series. Boston will meet Cincinnati in the Series. (AP Wirephoto)

Fielding, Hitting Destroyed A's Yastrzemski Boston Hero

OAKLAND (AP) — It was the Boston Red Sox' year of the rookies before Carl Yastrzemski moved back into left field and destroyed the Oakland A's.

"You know you can't pull that on me, Reggie," the 36-year-old Yastrzemski said in a taunt aimed at another of baseball's superstars, Reggie Jackson, early in Tuesday night's third and final game of the American League playoffs.

Jackson, cut down by Yastrzemski in the fourth inning as he tried to stretch a single into a double, was robbed of an extra base hit by the left fielder in the key eighth inning and admitted after the 5-3 defeat, "Yaz was the story."

Five hits by the veteran, including a two-run homer which put the Red Sox back in Sunday's second game after they trailed 3-0, also helped make Yastrzemski the undisputed top performer of the playoffs.

"We thought when Jim Rice got hurt it was a break for us," said A's captain Sal Bando. "It turned out to be the worst thing that happened."

Rice, who played left field most of the season and along with center fielder Fred Lynn gave the Red Sox the best two-man rookie combination to hit the major leagues in many years, broke a hand in late September.

Manager Darrell Johnson made the decision to move Yastrzemski from first base back to left, a position he manned expertly for many years. "He only needed a few days' practice to brush up," said Johnson.

Yaz, who was resting a sore left shoulder over the final days of the season and had limited game experience, remarked, "I could play left field in my sleep."

In the second playoff game, Yaz fielded the ball on a tricky carom in Fenway Park's left field corner and threw out Bert Campaneris who tried to go from first to third.

"But Yaz doesn't need that Fenway Park fence behind him to play a great left field. He'll prove that here," Johnson predicted before the old pro proved it before 49,356 Oakland Coliseum fans.

"During the season, we won it on defense," said Yastrzemski. "We won it here on defense, too. It would have been an entirely different series if we didn't make the plays."

Local Diving Club Growing Fast

You say you enjoy underwater diving and would like to join others in the down under world of water?

Well, Don McAlhany and James Main may have just what you're looking for. The two, along with three others, began the Michigan Underwater

Mustang Runners Down Lakeshore

RIVER VALLEY — River Valley upped its Blossomland cross country mark to 5-0 here Tuesday with a 22-39 victory over Lakeshore.

The Lancers' Mike Mead took first in 16:46 but the Mustangs captured the next three places with Dave Rieth clocked in 17:03 followed by Denny Zebell and Keith Hall. Russ Shank of Lakeshore was fifth.

Divers club in March. And in six short months the club has expanded to 20 paid members.

The purpose of the club is to provide a common meeting ground for persons who share an interest in underwater diving.

"The five of us are all certified divers and we never dive alone," Main says. "We had trouble getting buddy divers so we began the club."

Along with McAlhany and Main, the other three original members were Barry Friedman of Berrien Springs, Tom Miller of Stevensville and John Olexa of Benton Harbor.

The group meets once a month and posts the time and day of the meetings at Wolf Enterprises in St. Joseph and Pro Dive Shop in Michigan City, Ind.

Besides arranging a meeting place for prospective divers and finding "diving buddies," the club also issues a newsletter, with coming club events. Main says the newsletter has members receiving it as far away as Kansas.

The club also organizes planned dives as a club. "One of the big items of the club is we promote safety by learning to use dive flags," Main says. "We promote the buddy system and the use of a safety vest as a mandatory piece of equipment."

The group recently held its first annual Aquathon, a meet patterned after one held for the past 15 years in Cheboygan.

Tom Miller won the pile on swim, a race using diving flags. Dave Herdman was the black mask swim winner. The black mask swim is a surface run with the mask blacked out.

Herdman also won the treasure hunt, a lake sweep in which 100 numbered objects are tossed into the lake and the diver who recovers the most wins.

The other event is a tug-of-war team event. Main is hopeful to expand the meet next year to include spear fishing and mermals.

The club's next meeting is Oct. 22 at Main's home, 2707 Wilko drive. Dr. in Berrien Springs. Anyone with any questions on club activities should contact either Don McAlhany in Benton Harbor at 927-2679 or Main at 471-7308.

PLAZA RIVERVIEW DRIVE

Penguins Win NHL 'Faceoff'

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Gord Laxton was nervous when he found out he would start and a bit wobbly after his National Hockey League debut, but in between the rookie goalie performed like a seasoned veteran.

The 20-year-old Pittsburgh goalie turned aside 26 shots, including several close-in attacks under extreme pressure, leading the Penguins to a 4-2 victory over the Washington Capitals Tuesday night to launch the NHL's 50th season.

Following six more games tonight and three on Thursday, all but one of the league's 18 teams will have seen action. The Toronto Maple Leafs won't play their first game until Saturday.

Tonight's games include Chicago at the New York Rangers, California at Atlanta, the New York Islanders at Kansas City, Los Angeles at Montreal, St. Louis at Detroit, and Vancouver at Minnesota.

Given a 2-0 lead on goals by Dave Burrows and Vic Hadfield, early in each of the first two periods, Laxton was working on a shutout until defenseman Greg Joly put a shot past him at 15:08 of the second period.

Another goal by Washington rookie Tony White, just 12 seconds before the second intermission, tied it 2-2. But instead of folding, Laxton stopped 11 shots in the third period and thwarted four minutes of power play thrusts.

A slap shot by defenseman Colin Campbell snapped the tie at 5:41 and Syl Apps tallied Pittsburgh's second power play goal at 18:36.

"He made some big saves," observed Coach Marc Boileau, who said he would decide within two weeks which two goalies the Penguins will carry. In addition to Laxton, veterans Gary Innes and Michel Plasse are on the roster.

Boileau said the performance did not guarantee that Laxton would be in the nets for Pittsburgh's home debut on Saturday against Washington. But he added that the decision on the goalie's didn't mean that he'd alternate the three, either.

The Caps, last year's doormats who set an NHL record by winning only eight games in their inaugural season, played well most of the way.

"Early in the game our guys seemed to have spaghetti legs and couldn't get going," said Washington Coach Milt Schmidt. "But all in all, they gave me a very good effort."

Harbor Girl Cagers Win

MUSKEGON — Benton Harbor overcame a 17-point performance by Muskegon Catholic's Janet Schmitt and to post a 46-26 win in girls basketball played in Muskegon Tuesday night.

The Tigers, now 8-1 on the season, led by an 8-4 score after one quarter but tightened up their defense in the second quarter and outscored the Crusaders 18-7.

Carmella Hull led Benton Harbor with 16 points while Debra Jones chipped in with 10 points and Bernadette Hartfield and Dorothy Logan added six points each. Logan had all her points in that second quarter outburst.

The next game for the Tigers is Thursday night against Covert at home.

Laker Harriers Beat Panthers

WATERVLIET — Lake Michigan Catholic upped its Red Arrow conference record to 5-0 Tuesday with a 21-34 win over Watervliet in high school cross country run at the Panthers' home course.

The Lakers were paced by Tim Gentry who won the race in 18:16. Other finishers for Catholic were Steve Gentry third, Tony Wallace fourth, Bernie Maddux sixth and Joe Houscal seventh.

Watervliet, now 2-3 in the league, got a second place from Chuck Brock and a fifth place finish from Tim Lynch.

Award Night Set

The Fairplain Youth Baseball Association's awards night will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Fairplain junior high school gym. The association's annual business meeting will follow at 8 p.m. It will include the election of next year's officers.

TV's 'Jethro' Makes A Mint Creating His Own Films

MAX BAER
Once a has-been

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "It's great being rich," says Max Baer glowingly, casting disclaimers on "that poverty bit."

The actor-director-producer-writer, formerly the feather-witted Jethro of TV's "The Beverly Hillbillies," was showing a visitor around his newly-acquired property in Benedict Canyon.

There was a new tennis court, a new waterfall cascading into the swimming pool and the spacious house was refurbished with a film-editing room and a glass-ceilinged master bedroom.

"Macon County Line" bought all this," said Baer, an oversized man with a personality to match.

Two years ago, Max Baer was a television has-been. "The Beverly Hillbillies" went off the air in 1971 after nine prosperous years, and the nearsighted producers thought Baer could only play hulking rusties.

It's common for unemployed actors to write scripts for themselves, rare for those scripts to be produced. Max Baer defied the odds in writing, producing, starring in and largely financing "Macon County Line," based on a real-life happening in the South.

Again, he beat the odds. "Macon County Line" didn't disappear into the vaults. It was released by American International Pictures and became the company's biggest grosser in its 25-year history.

"I made the picture for $185,000 cash, or from $280,000 to $300,000 when all the bills were added up," said Baer. "So far the box office gross has been $40 million."

For his next film, "The Wild McCulloughs," he not only wrote, produced and starred in but directed as well. And he and partner Roger Camras financed the film out of their "Macon County Line" profits. The result was not the same jackpot.

"I decided to do a picture that had none of the elements that are considered commercial — no sex, no swearing and vulgarity, no nudity, no superstars or high-priced writer or director," said Baer. "Well, maybe that was a mistake. I liked the picture, and Forrest Tucker did one of the best pieces of acting I've ever seen."

"It will be profitable. I made it for $600,000 and the gross will be between $8 million and $10 million. But it would have been much more if the stars had been John Wayne and Robert Redford instead of Forrest Tucker and Max Baer."

Baer believes his next one, "Ode to Billy Joe," will go through the roof in the "Exorcist-Jaws" fashion. In view of past performance, not to mention his size, it's best not to argue with him.

The title, of course, comes from Bobby Gentry's modern-classic ballad about strange happenings on and off the Tallahatchee Bridge. The singer wrote and sang "Another Time, Another Place" for the soundtrack of "Macon County Line" and suggested to Baer that he make a film about her ode. He didn't think much of the idea.

"Then one night I was getting ready to go to a party," he recalled. "As I was getting dressed I turned on Channel 2 (cable TV) and started watching 'Summer of '42.' I found it so engrossing that I sat down and watched the whole thing. I never made the party."

"I taped the movie on my home recorder and watched it six times. I told my partner, 'If I can get Herman Raucher to write 'Ode to Billy Joe,' I'll make it.'"

He hired the writer for a six-figure fee and together they wrought a screenplay based on the bare bones of Miss Gentry's song.

"I got the idea in March, we had a screenplay by mid-May, I cast it in a month and a half, shot it for eight weeks in Mississippi and finished Sept. 10 — a total of six months!" said Baer.

After he had the script, Baer placed a trade paper ad describing his plans. Five studios responded. Warner Brothers and Paramount were finalists, and Baer chose Warner's "because they haven't had a big winner since 'The Exorcist.'" His stars are newcomers Robby Benson and Glynnis O'Connor.

And just what was thrown off the Tallahatchee Bridge?

'First Time' Not So Great, As Celebrities Tell Authors

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Karl Fleming lost his virginity at age 17 to a Baptist minister's daughter under the moonlight in a corn patch. His "First Time" wasn't very thrilling, Fleming recalls.

His wife, Anne Taylor Fleming, remembers her "First Time" (she was 19) as tender and romantic. It happened in a room at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Three years later, Anne married that first love, and now the Flemings have collaborated on a book that catalogues the "First Times" of some other people, most of them celebrities.

The book, called "The First Time" in case you haven't guessed, sold out its first printing before its Sept. 19 publication date. It's a series of interviews with 28 lovers, including the likes of Clifford Irving, Debbie Reynolds, Bobby Riggs, Mae West and Dr. Benjamin Spock.

Karl's and Anne's replies to queries about their own first sexual encounters were relatively discreet one-liners ("I'm glad I was there for yours," Karl said, beaming at Anne). But the answers their subjects gave were lengthy narratives about family and school life. The stories spanned several generations, from Alice Roosevelt Longworth's deflowering at age 24 in 1908 to actress Victoria Principal's as a teen-ager in the '60s.

"We wanted to do a book that would tell what this country is all about," said Karl, 48, and handsome enough to be seduced by anybody in a corn patch. "What better question to ask than about our bizarre tribal initiation rite?"

The idea for the book came two years ago as a money-making project for the two unemployed Los Angeles journalists. The Flemings said it was a delicate process to convince the 28 to talk for a book.

"But I think people have a desire to tell these things about themselves," said Anne, 25, with the looks and pep of a cheerleader. "As successful as these people are, they want others to know what they're really like. Look at all the troubles and woes I've seen."

Indeed, most of the first sexual fumbleings portrayed in the book were awkward, confusing and, in most cases, not terribly satisfying.

"The accomplishment far surpassed the physical pleasure," said Art Buchwald, describing his first time when he was 15 with a chambermaid twice his age.

"I think I was raped," said Liberace of his adventure at age 13 with a chesty blues singer.

"My God, is this it?" writer Nora Ephron asked.

The Flemings originally drew up a list of about 200 people, which was pared down to the final selections. No one was paid for their account, although Linda Lovelace of "Deep Throat" fame did ask and was eliminated.

Every sports figure the Flemings approached turned them down, as did most politicians. Former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox decided he didn't want to be in the book after first allowing an interview.

Sex symbols such as porn movie star Marilyn Chambers and silicone-breasted Carol Doda gave interviews too dreary for use, said the Flemings.

Some interviews lasted only an hour. Former conglomerate king Bernie Cornfeld's surprisingly bland assessment of his hundred or more encounters over the years since age 18 took several hours and visits to his pool, where naked women floated by.

BOOK OF LOVE: Karl and Anne Fleming have revealed their innermost secret in their book "The First Time," which sold out its first printing before its Sept. 19 publication date. (AP Wirephoto)

FBI Leaves VA Hospital

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The FBI has ended a sevenweek stay in the Veterans Administration Hospital here but says it is continuing a probe of mysterious breathing failures and 11 related deaths. Agents had used a fifth-floor office to question hospital employees and check volumes of hospital medical records as they tried to find out who was responsible for more than 50 breathing failures. Eleven patients who had the arrests died, although not all the deaths were attributed to the breathing stoppages. Agents theorized someone familiar with hospital procedures injected a muscle paralyzing drug into intravenous tubes carrying other medication and nourishment. Jay Bailey, assistant special agent in charge of the Detroit FBI office, said agents left their office in the hospital over the weekend so the facility could use the space.

Gets Life In Kidnapings

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A store manager who admitted kidnaping a juvenile customer and a woman seeking employment was sentenced to life imprisonment Tuesday. U.S. District Court Judge Wendell Miles imposed the sentence upon Robert James Young, 27, of Grand Rapids. Young pleaded guilty during August to the February kidnapings. The kidnapings occurred at the Kentwood convenience store Young once managed. The victims, a 16-year-old girl and a 19-year-old woman, were abducted in the woman's car. The child was left tied to a tree near Ionia and the handcuffed woman escaped from the car when Young stopped for gas in Toledo. Young was captured in Toledo by the FBI. He still faces state charges of kidnaping, embezzlement, auto theft and assault with intent to rape in the same incident.

Catholic Students Will Go Camping

Approximately 180 pupils of Lake Michigan Catholic primary school, Benton Harbor, will begin their sixth annual, week-long fall camping experience now Monday at Camp Chief Makisabe south of Watervliet, Principal Robert J. Schmid announced.

The camping program provides a learning experience in which students live with teachers and other students of various grade levels learn in a non-school setting, Schmid explained.

The regular school staff will be joined by a number of volunteer parents who will act as camping leaders.

Camp Chief Makisabe is the size of the Chicago Board of Education's outdoor educational program. Lake Michigan Catholic is the first school outside the Chicago system to use the facility, officials of the school said.

Hoffa Probers Eye Link With Mob

DETROIT (AP) — Anthony J. Zerilli, son of the reputed leader of the Detroit Mafia, will appear today before the federal grand jury probing the disappearance of former Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa.

Zerilli, 47, has been imprisoned at the Sandstone, Minn., federal penitentiary since April, more than three months before Hoffa's disappearance July 30. Zerilli was jailed for conspiring to obtain a hidden interest in a Las Vegas gambling casino.

Sources close to the probe say federal prosecutors are investigating past links between Hoffa and reputed racketeers.

FBI agents have been unsuccessful in their search for Zerilli's father, Joseph, the 78-year-old reputed head of the Detroit mob, who is also wanted for questioning by the grand jury.

Both Zerillis live on a $500,000, 20-acre estate that includes tennis courts, an oversized swimming pool and a horse racing track in Sterling Heights, a suburb north of Detroit.

Attorney General's office representatives asked the Michigan Liquor Control Commission (MLCC) Monday to revoke Zerilli's beer-and-wine license for a restaurant in Roseville. A state law prohibits convicted felons from holding liquor licenses.

Federal Judge James Churchill approved Zerilli's temporary release from the Minnesota penitentiary to testify before the grand jury, but refused him permission to attend the liquor commission hearing.

The MLCC hearing was held without Zerilli or his attorney in attendance. Patrick J. Devlin, an assistant attorney general, asked that Zerilli's license be revoked.

"Zerilli cannot be trusted to follow the law. He may argue that he is rehabilitated, but some time should go by first. Then he should prove it," Devlin said.

MLCC Commissioner Thomas A. Van Tiem took the request under advisement and said he would make a decision within two weeks.

Instant Lottery A Big Hit

By Associated Press
A new instant lottery game proved an instant success Tuesday as buyers stamped ticket stands and paid $1 to rub a number.

It was the first day of the instant game and lottery dealers across the state reported brisk sales.

"They're driving me crazy," said Leo Aubin, who sells lottery tickets at the Windsor Tunnel waiting room. "They just stand at the counter and buy two or three, scratch them off — and when they get a winner, buy more."

The numbers can be scratched into view with a coin or a fingernail.

Aubin said he sold 250 of the $1 tickets in about three hours. The winners pick up prizes ranging from $2 to $10,000. The $2 and $5 winners get their money on the spot.

Winners of bigger prizes must redeem their tickets at lottery claim centers, lottery headquarters or regional offices.

Hudson's department store ticket counter in downtown Detroit reported selling nearly 3,000 tickets.

Omar Frey, who owns a store in Erie where many Ohioans buy tickets, said he had 50 winners of $2 and $5 prizes in the 500 tickets he sold in three hours Tuesday.

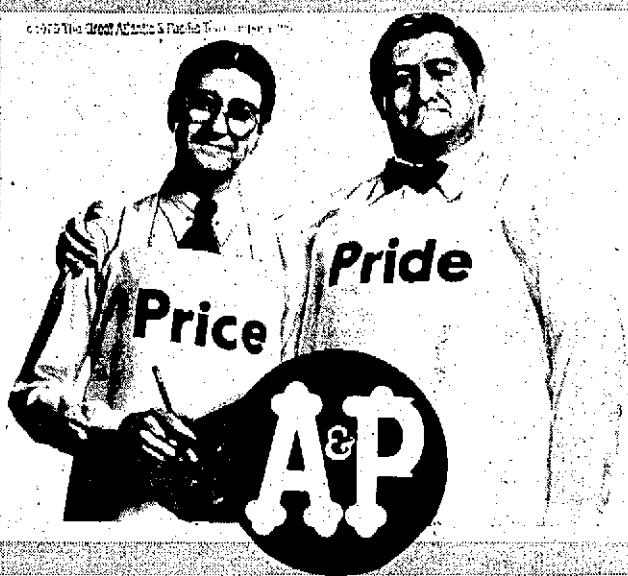

"And this is a slow day," Frey said. "This thing is really going to go."

To win, a player scrapes a covering off six rectangles on the ticket.

If three of the rectangles show the same dollar value, the player wins that amount.

If the word "finalist" shows up on all six boxes, the ticket holder gets a minimum of $10,000 and a chance at $1 million.

Lottery officials say the odds are one in 10 of getting a winning card.

Tips On Storing Meat And Poultry

As soon as you get the meat home, take off the store wrapping and rewrap it loosely in wax paper so that air can get to it. Sometimes it's more convenient to put it in an open dish and cover it loosely with waxed paper. Put in refrigerator.

If you're freezing the meat, however, it should be wrapped airtight.

If possible, take the meat out of the refrigerator before cooking and let it stand until it is at room temperature. About an hour for small cuts, two or even more for large cuts.

Ask Your Dentist

By ALFRED E. SEYLER, D.D.S.

Q. My lower denture is very loose because I have no lower ridge. I have heard that some dentists can make dentures that are screwed into the jawbone. Is that true? G.S.

A. I suspect you are asking about implant dentures, which are sometimes used when a person doesn't have enough jawbone to serve as a good base for a full denture, particularly a lower denture.

There are several techniques used in implant dentistry and your own dentist can explain them, I'm sure, or else he can refer you to a dentist who does that kind of work.

A recent article in the American Dental Association News stated that patients should be told that implant dentures are still to be considered as being in the stage of development, and that at best, 2 to 10 years of satisfactory wearing may be expected.

Obviously the success rate of implant dentures is not what we would like to see, and not every patient can have implants.

Talk to your own dentist about your particular situation; perhaps he can construct a different type of lower denture which will be more stable.

Q. Can you give me several good reasons for a dentist refusing to put caps on my front teeth? He keeps telling me I wouldn't be happy with them because I have too much space between my two upper middle teeth — and that's exactly why I want them capped — to close the space. C.R.

A. Well, your own dentist has given you a reason which may be a very good one for you. If the space is very wide, he would have to put in two teeth that would be so large they would look bad and out of proportion to your other teeth. He could perhaps cap four of your front teeth — making all four of them a bit larger.

Another reason for his refusal to cap your teeth could be that your front teeth, upper and lower, come together in a "close bite". In such a case, the back teeth have to be built up so that your front ones have more room between the upper and lower ones.

You have told me you are 40 years old and married. That age doesn't seem old to me, but I'm sure your friends have learned to visualize you with the space you complain about and accept it as a matter of course.

You must know, too, that slight irregularities can sometimes be attractive.

Q. My child's baby teeth are badly decayed. Will this have any effect on the permanent teeth? A.B.

A. If your child's teeth are so badly decayed that there are infections at the root tips, these infections may affect the developing underlying permanent teeth. Furthermore, you should want to determine what caused the baby teeth to be so badly decayed so that when the permanent teeth come in they are not similarly affected.

Robs Store To Finance Cuba Attack

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — A 38-year-old mother of six says she robbed two shoe stores last year to help raise money for an invasion of Cuba.

Mrs. Diane Vasquez of Newark pleaded guilty Tuesday in Union County Court to charges she and two male accomplices robbed the stores in Union Township on April 5, 1974.

Mrs. Vasquez, who refused to name her accomplices, could be imprisoned for 30 years.

She told Judge John Walsh that money from the robberies was "to help finance the Cuban Revolutionary Party for the invasion of Cuba."

A WIFE STANDS IN THE WAY For Sally, Marriage Is 'Out'

SALLY: No divorce, no marriage.

Q: Why doesn't Sally Struthers go ahead and marry Art Fisher? I mean she's happily married on TV in "All in the Family." — U.E., Tucson, Ariz.

A: Well, we hear it's because Fisher's wife, who lives in Florida, won't give him a divorce.

Q: Remember that Avery Brundage, that big wheel with the Olympics who married a young girl a couple of years ago? Did he leave her any money when he died recently? — I.L., South Bend, Ind.

A: Avery Brundage's widow, 38-year-old Marlann Reuss, a German Princess, is reported to be living on a mere pittance in California waiting for her late husband's will to be probated. Whatever her share it is bound to be a purse-full as Brundage, who was 88 when he died, made millions in Chicago real estate and left a fortune estimated to be around $100 million plus a $20 million dollar art collection.

Q: I have never been able to get on a TV game show though I always bet 1,000 on the answers when watching. What can I do about this? — V.Y., Los Angeles, Calif.

A: Have patience, Bob Stewart, producer of "The $10,000 Pyramid," is working on an idea where the home viewer will be able to participate actively by punching out a series of coded numbers on an electronic device attached to the TV set. Xerox is interested.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: What next for Argentina's strong woman Maria Estela Peron? The widow of the late dictator will probably soon marry her deputy, Lopez Rega, whom she was forced to sack.

Q: With American businessmen getting together with their Arab counterparts so much these days, what do they serve for drinks? Aren't Arabs forbidden alcohol? — Q.W., Meriden, Conn.

A: At many of the Arab-sponsored receptions only soft drinks are available. The resourceful Americans, however, have reportedly found a new use for those metal cigar containers. It seems they're good for holding alcoholic spirits which can then be added to the soda pop.

Q: Is Liz Taylor writing her autobiography as rumored? — V.T., Kansas City, Kans.

A: Absolutely not. She already did one memoir with Richard Merriam and now she says anything else will be "over my dead body."

A TOP BONE SPECIALIST warns motorists who drive with their elbow sticking out of the car window that they could seriously damage their arm by dislocating the ulnar nerve in the forearm. . . . Niles Bank Sues Shop Over Loan

A Niles-based bank has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court against a Berrien Springs bicycle shop seeking repayment of money allegedly loaned to the bike shop.

First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan seeks $19,433 from William and Brenda Nestle, doing business as Nestle's Cycle Shop, at 124 East Perry street, Berrien Springs.

The suit claims the bank loaned $19,000 to the Nestles on June 12, and that they signed a promissory note saying the loan would be paid back before Sept. 10. The suit charges only $251 has been paid, and claims the principal and interest now due is $19,433.

Ailing Car Firm Needs $25 Million

TORONTO (AP) — Malcolm Bricklin said Tuesday he can raise $10 million in private United States financing to rescue his troubled sports car firm if the Ottawa and New Brunswick governments are willing to provide $15 million in additional capital.

Bricklin, chairman of the board of Bricklin Canada, Ltd., which has been placed in receivership, told a news conference the company requires $20 million to $25 million in new financing to get back into production. It has $20 million in debts.

He said he intends to approach the Canadian federal and New Brunswick governments to see if they would be willing to jointly invest $15 million.

Bricklin said private individuals in the United States, whom he declined to identify, are prepared to loan him $10 million on condition the company is permitted to operate "without political interference."

He said he hopes to meet soon with officials from both governments and emphasized he has not yet approached them about his latest proposal to save the firm.

Van Buren Pair Waive Hearings

PAWPAW — Billy Sikes, 17, route 1, Bangor, and William C. Souders, 18, Shaefer Orchards, Lawrence, were bound over to Van Buren circuit court yesterday after waiving Seventh district court preliminary examinations on charges of unlawful use of a motor vehicle.

According to Van Buren sheriff's deputies, the charge stems from the theft of a tractor from the Shaefer Orchards Sunday.

Both Souders and Sikes were released on their own recognizance.

In other cases, Henry C. Bokes, 18, route 3, South Haven, was bound over to circuit court following preliminary examination on a charge of larceny in a building. The charge grew out of the Jan. 3 theft of $600 from the Pacer service station in Paw Paw.

John M. McGerry, 18, Oak Park, Ill., pleaded guilty to an amended charge of larceny, and was sentenced by Judge William C. Buhl to serve 13 days in the county jail, with as many days credit.

McGerry had originally been charged with larceny in a building in connection with the alleged theft of two cans of fruit juice Sept. 24 from Miller's market, Sister Lakes.

Daniel Smith, 17, Bloomington, pleaded guilty to an amended charge of conspiracy to commit larceny and was placed on pre-sentence investigation. He had originally been charged with breaking and entering a rural Bloomington mobile home Sept. 17.

Ford's Plan 'Ambiguous'

DETROIT (AP) — President Ford's tax and budget cutting plans are "ambiguous, nebulous and totally non-specific," United Auto Workers Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazzy said Tuesday, adding full employment should be government's goal. Mazzy said Ford did not specify which government functions would be cut, promising instead to outline his program in January. Until then, Mazzy said, Ford's plan "is almost impossible to evaluate."

AREA POLICE ROUNDUP

Two Juveniles Held In Break-In Try

Two 15-year-old Benton Harbor boys were taken into custody early today by city police and charged with attempted breaking and entering at Fricke's Home Appliances, 86 Wall street.

Patrolman James Burgess apprehended the boys after a short foot chase from where a rock had been thrown through a window of the appliance store about 3:30 a.m. Police said no entry had been made.

The youths were lodged at the Berrien juvenile home, Berrien Springs, pending petitioning to juvenile court on the charges.

Three Benton Harbor men were arrested Tuesday by city police on charges stemming from the burglary of a Benton Harbor home Oct. 1.

Booked at the Berrien county jail were Ronnie Terry Baker, 20, of 142 East Britain avenue, charged with breaking and entering; and Ozell Moore, 21, and Larry Lavone Ware, 18, both of 774 McAllister avenue, both charged with receiving and concealing stolen property.

Police said investigation into the burglary of the Will Brown residence, 730 Pavone street, led to the arrests. Police said most of the $1,896 in goods stolen have been recovered.

Two women told St. Joseph police more than $300 were stolen from their purses at their home. Minna Fiffbrandt, and Emma Pigusch, both of 1310 State street, said their purses were in their home when the money was taken. $134.88 was stolen from one purse, the other contained $201.00.

A boy weighing 10 pounds 1 1/2 ounces was born to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Morrison, South Haven, at 1:42 a.m. yesterday.

A used car reported stolen Tuesday morning from a Benton Harbor dealership was recovered Tuesday by city police.

Frank Sciutto, sales manager at Transworld Volkswagen, Inc., 170 North River-view drive, said the 1973 Volkswagen was missing shortly after 11 a.m. Police found the car, valued at $2,000, on Clay street near Colfax avenue. It was undamaged, police indicated.

An 18-year-old Stevensville man was arrested Tuesday by Berrien sheriff's deputies on a charge of possession of marijuana. Steven Bruce Petnick, 604 West John Beers road, was booked at the Berrien county jail after a small amount of suspected marijuana was confiscated when his car was stopped on John Beers west of Ridge road, Lincoln township about 5 p.m. any rate, CBS certainly came out the winner for time allowed in airing opinions.

It is very sad to think that a show like "The Guns of Autumn" would be allowed to be shown for the purpose of degrading the hunter and the sport of hunting. It is not a fair example of the honest hunter.

LMC Will Participate In Survey Of Vocational Education Grads

Lake Michigan college has been designated one of 10 community colleges in the state to take part in a survey of the state's vocational training programs.

Benjamin J. Standen, dean of technical and occupational studies, said LMC will cooperate with the Michigan State Advisory Council for Vocational Education in a broad study of vocational programs. All of LMC's 1975 vocational education graduates will be mailed a questionnaire this week. Graduates are asked to return the questionnaire by Oct. 24.

"The results of the survey will be used by state and local planners to study the effectiveness of the state's vocational education and training programs," Standen said.

The study will consider such questions as: Was the training what the student really needed? Was it easier for the student to get a job than the person without training? Do employers see any difference between vocational and non-vocational graduates? Is the move toward spelling out the objectives of the course for each student making the course more meaningful to the student?

High schools and community colleges graduated more than 70,000 vocational students this year in some 120 different instructional programs ranging from data processing to quantity food preparation; and from building trades to a full range of health care services.
